WE'RE

All in This

TOGETHER

Steff,

Well you're almost a "Big Sophomore"
Are you excited? You better be. I want you to know that you are very special to me. You are my number 1 friend. You have to tell me when your softball games are so I can come and bag on you girls. I'm absolutely positive that I'll see ya this summer so I won't write that crap about I hope I'll see ya.

I have one question, why don't you get a mowhawk like your HOSEBAG Bro. Well we'll have to go party with my friend to welcome her back.

Well just think someday you'll read this and think hey this "STUD" wrote all these nice things about me. Well, in conclusion, I DON'T WANT TO SMILE!

Love ya,

Jeff Sorenson

STEFFANIE!!!

WHADDUP, home-girl!?!?! Dang, this year went 'By fast! Too fast actually. Well, I'm really glad I got 2 meet you this year.
Typing class was fun, but at first I thought you were pretty good, but towards the end of the semester you started to suck! J/K!
You're so nice, so cool, so fresh - stay that way! Hope we got some classes together again in September!

Steff-

~~Then to Boppy~~

COOL NAME, DUDE! Softball was fun, even though we sucked. I hope this other team we're on will have better luck. So, I'm pretty sure I'll be seeing you all summer. Just think, next year you'll be a big bad sophomore - Whew!
- I'm really glad we got to be friends -

Love,

Stephanie ← That's the normal way to spell it.

Steff,

How are

You doing? Have a gee whizz killer summer.
Go to the beach as many times as you can. When you go to the beach think of me, because I will be in my room grounded. Have fun.
Call me 20 times a day OK.

Dear Steffie,
Hi baby! What is up chickie. You are such a sweetie. I'm so happy I met you this year. Well you have 3 more years and I know we'll be friends for at least 2 more years

but after that I'm jetting out of this jail.
Well now that I know where you live I'll ~~go~~ come and pick you up so we can go to the beach. OK. Well call me ok.

We're All in This Together!

“We’re in this together” sums it all up in one sentence. Whether we’re working or playing or “just hanging out,” we are all driven towards each other in our mutual pursuit of life, love and happiness. As the bond of our friendships grow, we learn from each other and combine our different interests into a budding community which functions solely on our cooperation to live and work together. We laugh; we love; we achieve; we struggle together. And it is our friendship that keeps us going, pursuing and reaching for the stars. It is the songs we enjoy and share with each other that remind us of the beauty we bring out of our friends. It’s a jukebox of selections that emphasizes the combination of individuals that we are — sharing, loving, growing, learning together. Through good times and bad, when we’re close or far away, we feel connected — joined together by that which we share, our love for each other and what we are together: friends ‘till the end. Isn’t it nice knowing that?

in Friendship & Laughter

Amidst all the confusion of homework, tests, and deadlines for school, students at PHS survived the hard times thanks in part to friends. Friends enhanced the fun times during the school year and also made it easier to enjoy moments of victory even more.

"Friends are always there when you need someone to be with," said junior Jane Takenouchi. "They laugh with you and make you happy. Being able to talk to people like that is very special; and since chances are you will not have the same friends when you go to college, high school is the time to do the crazy things that can be done only when you're young."

"Friends are a source of happiness and pleasure to me," explained Susan Conner. "They show support for me and are always there when I need them. They give me a reason to smile at school."

Not only did friends make good times, but they also helped during the hard times as well. Friends were there for us to study with before a hard exam, or to comfort us if we did not make the Homecoming Court or to pump us up for the big game coming up. The thing that will definitely be remembered most from our memories of PHS will be the friendships that we shared.

Together in Spirit

HS has had a great tradition in showing school spirit, and this year was no different. Students stuck together in raising money for their respective classes and demonstrated great pride in the school.

"We had a new, fresh start because of the new administration," said Aleni Estacio. "We were more unified as a student body. Everyone worked hard to make PHS the best!"

"Pep Squad, among others, showed spirit throughout the year," said pep commissioner Laura Chaparian. "The girls worked together as a unit for more crowd involvement. At pep rallies their high spirited attitude reflected on the audience's participation."

Another way PHS showed spirit was at Spirit Day, where students put up posters and decorated certain parts of the campus to get all involved to try to raise money for their classes. At assemblies students hooted and cheered for the pep squad, the band and invited guests who performed. Furthermore, students constantly and willingly attended sporting events and cheered for PHS, knowing that the game was not over until the final second.

As we look back on the 1986-'87 school year, we can be proud of our traditional school spirit that will always remain strong.

The spirit and determination of PHS students is represented by the bulldog mascot. ▲ Varsity football players Lamar Watkins and Willie Minor express their school spirit at the season opener against Damien. ▶

Together in Work

With thoughts of future goals and careers, PHS students had to study hard in order to succeed. While in class, concentration was needed to learn the necessary material to assure a passing grade on the next test.

Different methods worked for different people, but all worked toward the same dream to achieve excellence ... or at least a decent grade. At lunch, some students studied by themselves, with a tutor or sometimes in groups.

Various groups of students also participated in school activities which demanded extra time. After school sports practice, band, NJROTC or a part-time job were just a few of the time-consuming, yet rewarding, involvements of many students. "My job enabled me to be organized with my time so that I could work and do my homework," said senior Marni Bonini, an employee at a local Jack-in-the-Box. "Before, I had more time, but somehow it was never enough to finish all of my school obligations."

Through work, students learned how to be more disciplined and enjoyed their free time more than ever. "If it was time to study," said sophomore Eric Hernandez, "I concentrated on it. Then, I could let all the pressure out when it was finally time for fun."

Through working, students also excelled in other areas. "We improved ourselves mentally, physically, socially, and academically," senior Romerle Johnson added. "The more you work and the harder you try, the greater rewards you will get for your efforts."

in Triumph and Defeat

Throughout the year students involved in sports trained hard to win. As sixth period started, they immediately got ready, changed and began to practice. While everyone else went home as school ended, they stayed out in the rain, smog and heat, sometimes until 5 p.m. or beyond. Athletes also worked hard in the classroom as well, knowing they could not participate in sports without a "C" average.

Teams exemplified the true meaning of teamwork, leadership and sportsmanship. Teammates cheered and supported each other to the very end. "We were good friends as well as teammates," explained varsity water poloist Craig Hinkel. "After a win, we felt very close. If we lost, we tried to forget about it, understand what we did wrong and concentrate on the next game."

The football team also showed great teamwork. "We were like a family," said varsity linebacker Lamar Watkins. "We were like brothers. Color made no difference. We all wanted to be number one."

That was also the goal of cross country team, which demonstrated great sportsmanship as well as tough competition. "Individual performances were uplifting and helped in rejuvenating team spirit," explained runner Suzette Basore.

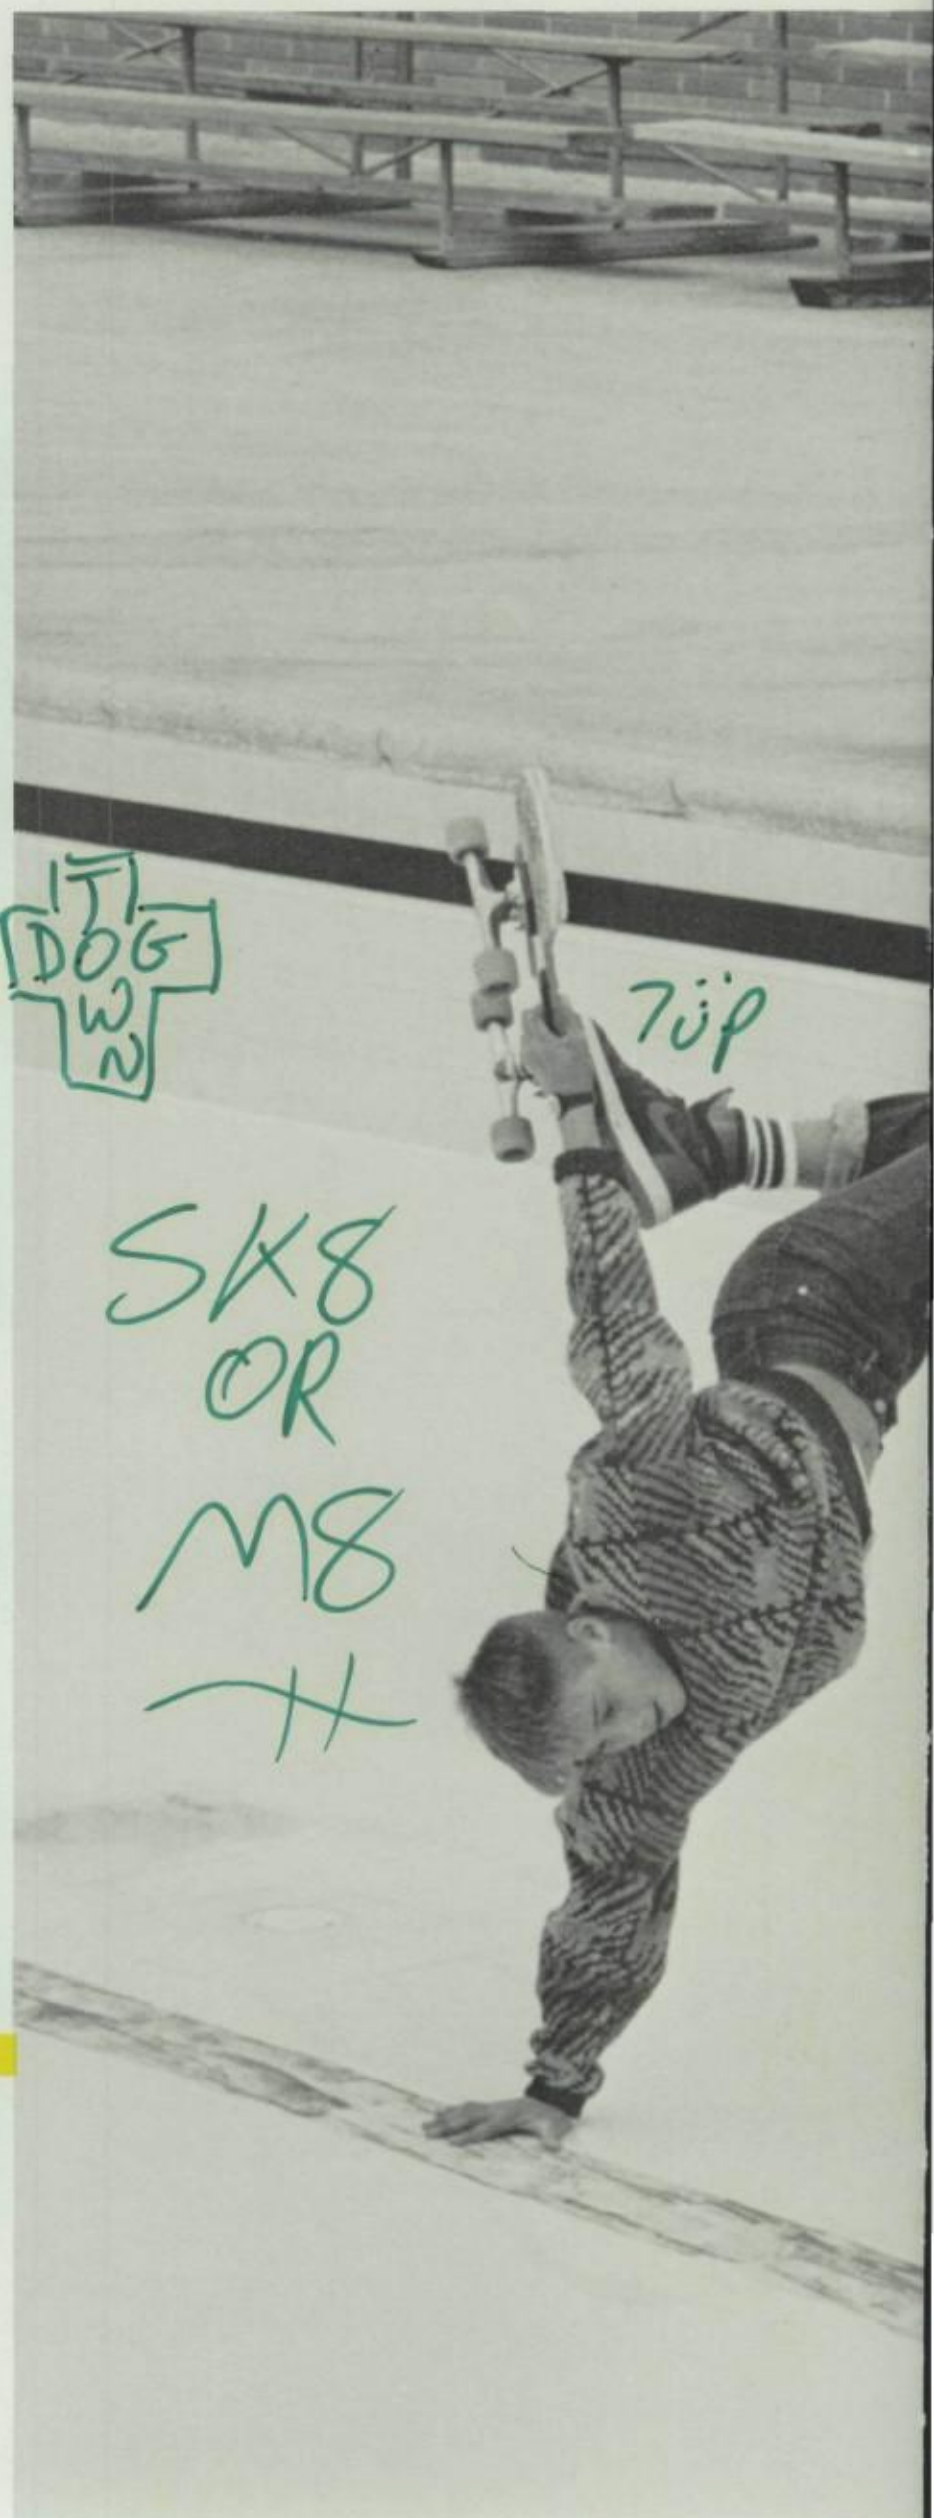

Although these athletes had to go through gruelling work, they all agreed that it paid off in the end.

Together in Playfull Pastimes

It was a familiar sight to see PHS students sitting in small groups at lunch just having fun and enjoying themselves.

Many tried to relax before more classes began. Senior Bryan Kustner felt extra excitement was sometimes needed. "If I didn't say anything, everyone would have been bored stiff," he said. "I livened things up."

School tension and stress were relieved by events such as dances during lunch with a DJ. No matter what kind of student attended, each enjoyed that time of day when all other problems could be forgotten.

Athletic events also exposed the playful side of otherwise serious PHS students. Most did not just sit down and watch. They socialized with their friends, cheered on the Bulldog team and ate a variety of junk food products. "I liked the football games the most," said junior Maria Alvarez. "We were able to do more than just watch the game. We were able to have fun."

Other students decided to enjoy themselves at any time or place. During the first or last moments of class, many goofed off in their own little worlds. At times, this included the latest gossip, hopes for future dates, and even a few discussions about the latest computer software. Whatever the conversation, all had a good time during the PHS student version of fun and "play."

Together Until We Part

By the time the class of 1987 reached their fourth and final year of high school, they had grown in all areas of their lives. Their friends were important, their school spirit shines above any other class, and the realization that they would soon leave high school began to center in their minds.

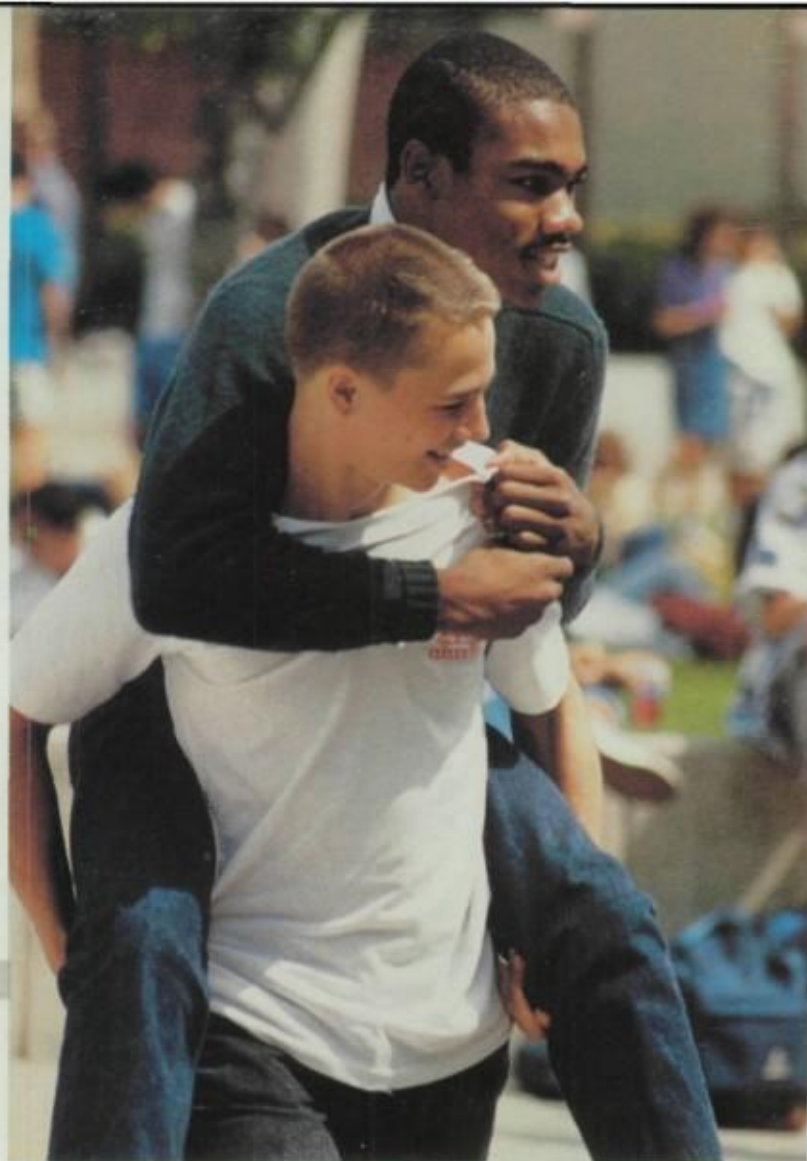

Everyone at PHS had different situations to handle, yet there was a common bond. As said by senior Margarita Olvera, "Those four years were a 'big' experience. They gave me a chance to mature in so many ways. But most of all, high school was an experience I will never forget."

Even new students who came to PHS for their senior year felt welcome. "The atmosphere was real," transfer Rachel Pearson said. "There was a kindred feeling of freedom to be yourself that was very reassuring. PHS is a place to not only learn but to be enriched by the warmth that will be remembered always."

Seniors also had varied experiences while at PHS. Most learned to drive; some even got a car. Fears and anxiety of first dates were overcome and dependence on parents gradually decreased. Seniors were able to share the thrill of getting their first paycheck, and emerging into positions of leadership at school, church and community.

High school is definitely a special period of time for all.

It's great to have good friends and good times as Laura Chaparian comes to realize when her friends throw a surprise birthday party for her in center quad. ▲ with their senior year of high school now at a close, the members of the Class of '87 can truly be proud of themselves and their record. The many posters and rolls of streamers used to decorate the school showed their endless amount of spirit, making this the third straight year they have won the Spirit Day competition.

"We are so lucky to have a small group of people who always helped and stuck by the Class of '87," said Senior Class President Amy Blackshaw (pictured at right).

All the time and hard work on the part of Prom Committee produced a magnificent Prom, which was held at the Biltmore Hotel.

"The Class of '87 worked toward a goal as a team," said Stefanie Saccoman, the class adviser, "and year by year more members of the class became involved."

"Our friendship has held us together throughout these four years," said Barbara Villalobos, Senior Class secretary.

Throughout our lives we will always cherish the fond memories of our high school years and the people that made up the class of '87.

COME AND VISIT YOU. K.I.T IF YOU CAN (794-6283)

HEY, STEFFANIE!

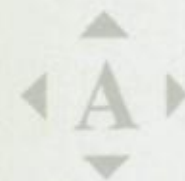

Well it looks to me like your freshman year is over! Yee haw! Being a sophomore is not quite as exciting, but you'll feel more secure about your surroundings, right? I seem to remember Spencer's Barmitzvak a couple of years ago, where you and Alison were there. That's when I first met you, and ever since then you've been constantly cheering, and you always have a "hello" at the ready. I admire you for always being able to smile and be happy - it's a great way to be! Hopefully next year there will be more football games to hang out at and a occasional party or dance. Maybe we'll have a class or two together. By the way, that picture of you and Ali is cute. Even though you guys don't really think so! Love,
Hilary

P.S. I love to sing about the moon and the Tunes and the spring. About the skys of blue and me and you and tea for two. And I love you I love to I love to sing me!

Cheer Shows Spirit

All three levels of cheer - varsity, JV and Bullpups - had successful years because of their hard work, energy and pride. The cheerleaders helped promote spirit at athletic events, pep rallies and assemblies.

During the summer prior to the '86-'87 school year, all three squads received honors at U.S.A. Spirit

Camp, including a "Superior" trophy won by the varsity for overall camp performance.

The entire pep squad has been especially proud of this year's Bullpups. "It's been a couple of years since we have had a Bullpup squad at all, and this is the first year we have had freshmen on any squad," said pep commissioner Laura Chaparian.

Flag, Song Do Well in Competition

A third place finish in a cheerleading competition for the flag girls and a fifth place for the song girls highlighted the year for both squads.

From the beginning the flag girls were successful. At their summer cheerleading camp they received a "superior" rating for their routine as well as the "unity award" that is only given to one squad.

The song girls received an "excellent" on their performance routine at their camp and continued their high quality throughout the year at athletic games, assemblies and pep rallies.

The benefits of these pep squad members has been positive. "None of us knew each other when we were first chosen," said flag girl Stacey Laumann, "but because of the time we spent together this past year, we've become much closer."

Through their many hours of practice and commitment, both the flag girls and the song girls were a great asset to the school spirit at PHS.

Homecoming Queen and Six Princesses Reign over Activities

Queen Carmella Zigler was crowned at the annual PHS Homecoming Dance, becoming true royalty.

"I wasn't listening for my name," said Zigler, "so when they called it, I was extremely shocked and happy. I just can't describe the feeling."

The court itself was announced by Senior Class president Amy Blackshaw at the Homecoming Assembly at PHS, and also before the Turkey Tussle at the Rose Bowl.

The reactions of the court members were quite similar when they were told that they had made it. "When I heard Mr. Sunada's voice on the phone," said princess Monique Blancas, "I just screamed. I was so happy!"

After tryouts and eliminations to 15 semi-finalists, the anxiety grew among the participants. The announcement of the seven lucky finalists brought much relief. "I was full of joy when I made it," said princess Nicole Robinson. "I tried out mainly because I love PHS and I wanted to show my enthusiasm and spirit for the school."

The queen and her court, along with their escorts, presided over the Homecoming Dance and represented PHS in all homecoming activities.

Surely this was an honor that these girls will remember for many years to come.

Bulldogs Lose Turkey Tussle, Bell

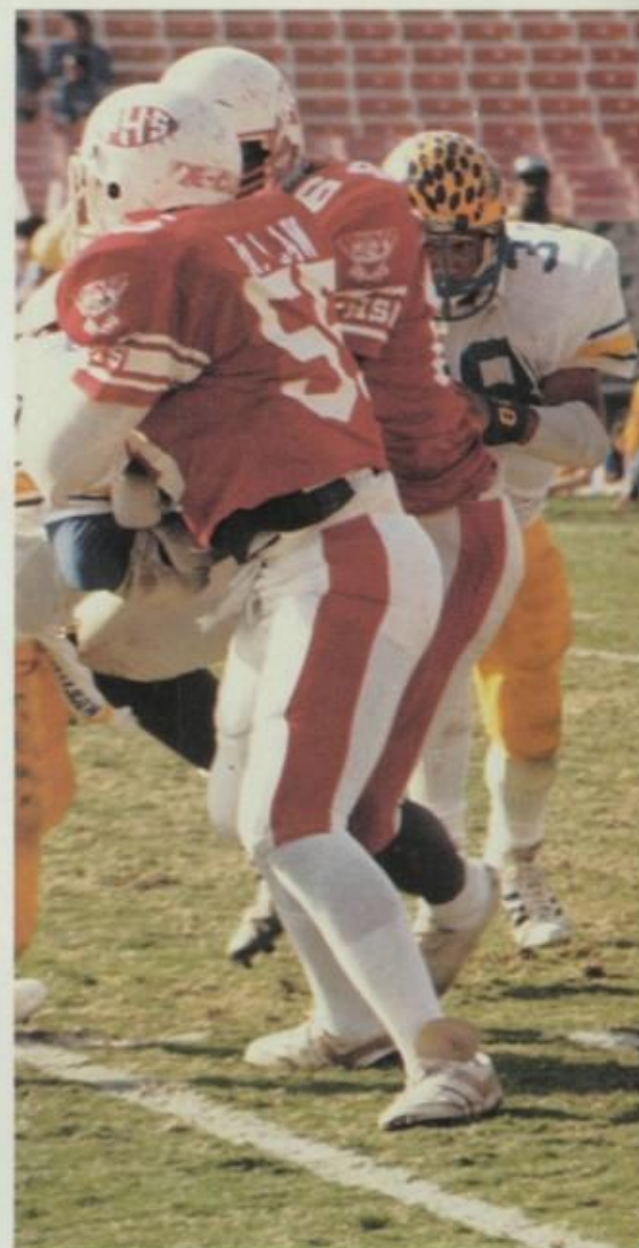

Despite Anthony Wallace's 170 yards rushing, the Bulldogs were defeated by arch rival and fierce competitor John Muir, 30-8, in the annual Turkey Tussle.

Wallace scored PHS' only touchdown of the game with a 65-yard run midway through the third quarter. Victor Gordo was the leading receiver in the game with 36 yards on three receptions, and quarterback Cris Sunada completed seven of eight passes for 29 yards, but it was not enough. Muir proved it had one of the best teams in CIF. Led by quarterback Vince Phillips and tailback Rick Ervins, the Mustangs displayed their talent by shutting down much of PHS' offense as well as sustaining a balanced offensive attack of their own.

"I think the score was misleading," said Gordo. "We beat ourselves because of our own mistakes. We should have taken advantage of Muir's inexperienced defense and passed more often, but we didn't."

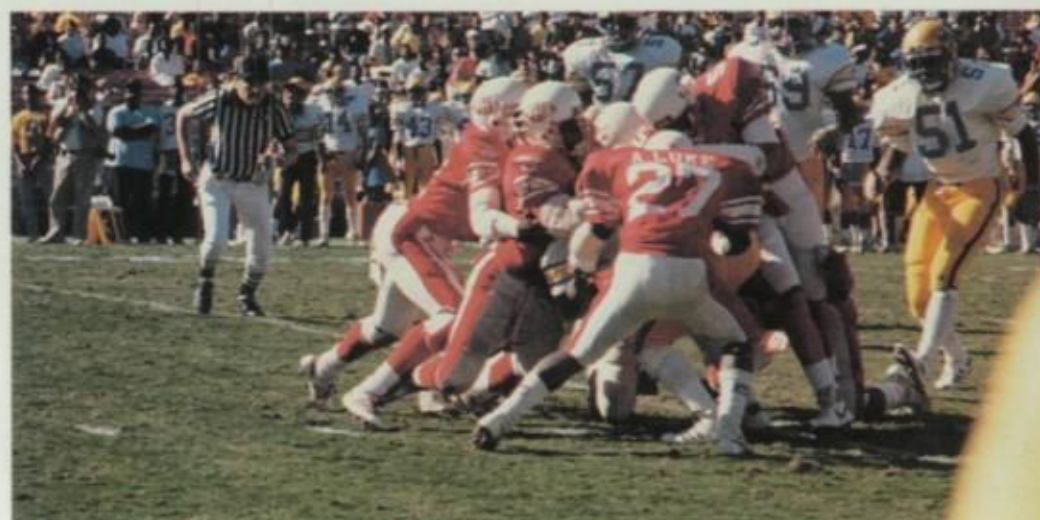

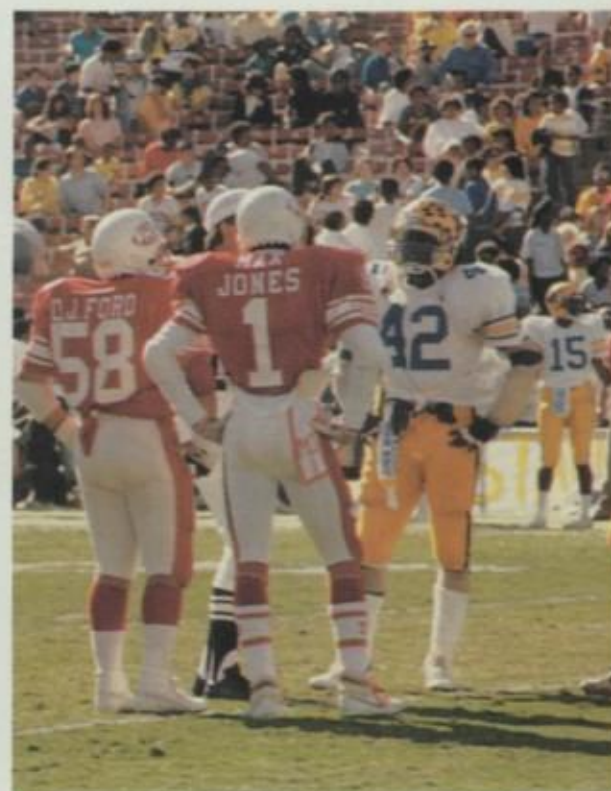

Left guard Dan Ford agreed. "Wallace would have rushed for over 230 yards if it hadn't been for so many penalties we committed. He had a 55-yard touchdown run called back because of holding. You can't make mistakes against Muir and expect to win."

600 Attend Homecoming Dance, See Zigler Crowned Queen

The 1986 Homecoming Dance had the largest attendance ever. Approximately 600 people came to see the crowning of homecoming queen, Carmella Zigler.

The dance, organized by Tony Vayos and Dione Montgomery, was held at the Sheraton Premiere in Universal City.

"I liked the atmosphere," said senior Lori Byrd. "It seemed like everybody was having a nice time and enjoying themselves."

A live band called Rembrandt was a special addition to the night. A DJ was also featured.

Those present enjoyed a large buffet as well. However, most did not stay seated for long. Dancing was an important part of the evening.

"I feel the dance was fun and exciting," said senior Victor Gordo. "Everybody was involved and had a good time."

Overall, the Homecoming Dance was a success to all who attended.

Band Has PHS Pride

Despite a change in band directors during its mid-season, the "Pride of Pasadena" still had a successful year. In competition the band did very well, placing second at El Camino and second at Lester Oaks, winning over Muir.

Besides competing, the band also supported the football team at all games and performed at all pep rallies. The band also marched in a Christmas parade at Magic Mountain and had a special performance at Santa Barbara's City Hall.

Some members, such as Keith McCarter, Tonya Hill, Lloyd Bowen, Kraig Pakulski, Janet Bowen, Craig Jordan, Arnold Sygo, John Harshbarger and David Scharf, marched with the Tournament of Roses Honor Band on New Year's Day.

"We've had a very successful season," said drum major David Scharf, "and all the members have worked hard and deserve a great amount of credit."

Tall Flags, Drill Team Unite

The 1986-87 season was a landmark for the PHS tall flags and drill team which united to form the Pageantry Corps. to achieve an added visual effect in the band's half-time show.

"Despite the problems we had throughout the season," said tall flag captain Michele Montecinos, "we worked hard to bring tall flags and drill team into one unit, and because of our efforts, we won our first Sweepstakes trophy."

Both units competed in several competitions with the band in El Camino, Azusa and Lester Oaks, winning several awards.

In addition, the group traveled to Santa Barbara for a special performance as well as to Disneyland and Magic Mountain for parades.

"It was a privilege," said drill team captain Krystal Williams, "and a lot of fun to be part of this special squad."

"We've had our ups and downs," added adviser Mollie Matthews, "but the worst is behind us. I'm looking forward to another rewarding year."

Spanish, French Clubs Have Varied Activities

panish and French clubs have had an exciting year, both clubs participating in many activities and fundraisers which helped to make them very visible on campus.

Spanish Club found many original fundraisers such as selling nachos on Clubs Day and selling churros at the Rose Bowl as well as having a traditional candy sale to raise money for their many activities. The club funded a trip to Olvera Street on Cinco de Mayo, an authentic Mexican dinner, and an evening at the movies for all its members.

According to Spanish Club member Craig Hinkel, "Much of the club's success was due to president Bryan Kustner. His enthusiasm helped to inspire others to become involved," he said.

Kustner himself felt the club had made excellent progress this year due in part to a very dedicated and hard-working adviser Rudy Fuentes.

Under the leadership of Alex Young, the French Club sponsored its three traditional events. The annual international Christmas party was a success. Club members contributed delicacies from such places as France, Mexico, Norway and the Philippines to the Bouche de Noel or Yule Log, a traditional French dessert. Later in the year the group went to dinner at the Chez-Vous in Arcadia. Finally, the club sponsored a trip to the J. Paul Getty Museum in Malibu for the second, third and fourth year French classes.

French club funded its many activities by selling ice cream bon-bons on Clubs Day, parking cars during Christmas/New Year's vacation and having lunch time candy sales.

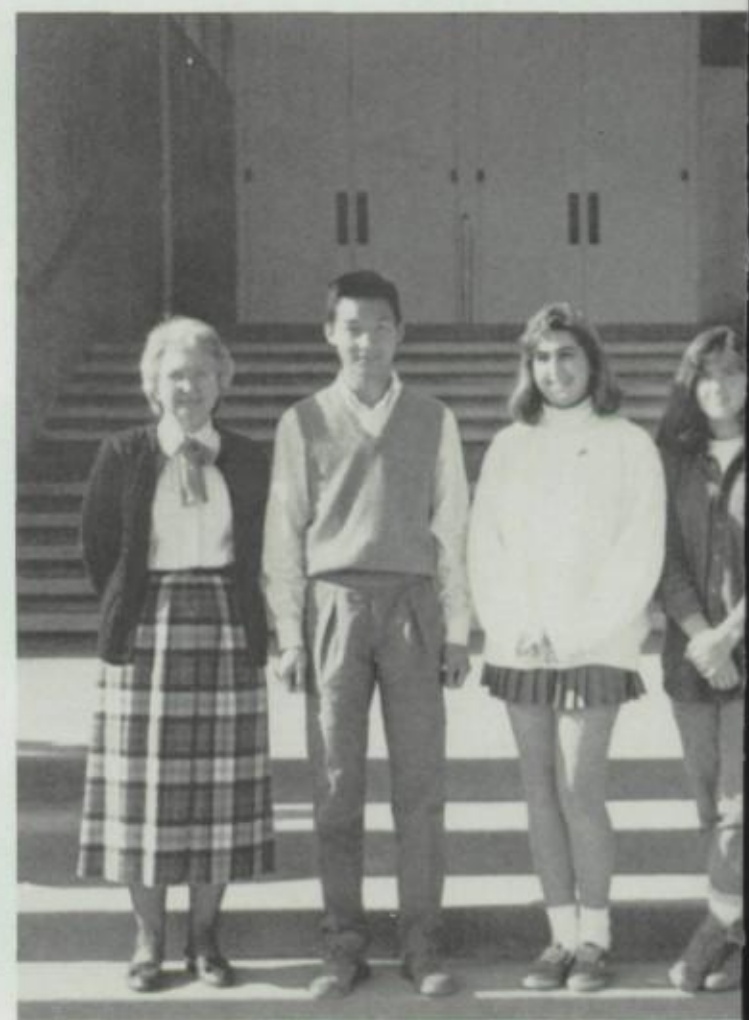

The club certainly would not have been able to accomplish any of the aforementioned without the assistance of adviser Carol Dunn. Dunn not only gave advice to the club's officers, but she also made many of the necessary arrangements and did most of the leg work.

3 Groups Share Cultures

The Asian/American Club, Armenian Club and Black Student Union worked to share their cultures and learned to work together toward their goals.

The Asian/American Club, led by president Edson Gin, was not as active as last year, yet still persevered to maintain the club unity.

"I feel the club lacked," said Gin, "due to high academic responsibilities of the members."

"Students were just over-involved in other things," said adviser Nancy Hogg. "It was difficult to find a time to hold a meeting when everyone could attend."

Another ethnic organization, the Armenian Club, was able to expand its activities and, as a result, had a prosperous year.

"The Armenian Club," said president Virginia Titizian, "was a big success this year as compared to previous years. We accomplished a lot and had fun at the same time."

Another club, the Black Student Union, started its year with a strong group of members.

"We did a few more things this year as compared to last year," said president Dione Montgomery. "However, there is still room for improvement in other areas."

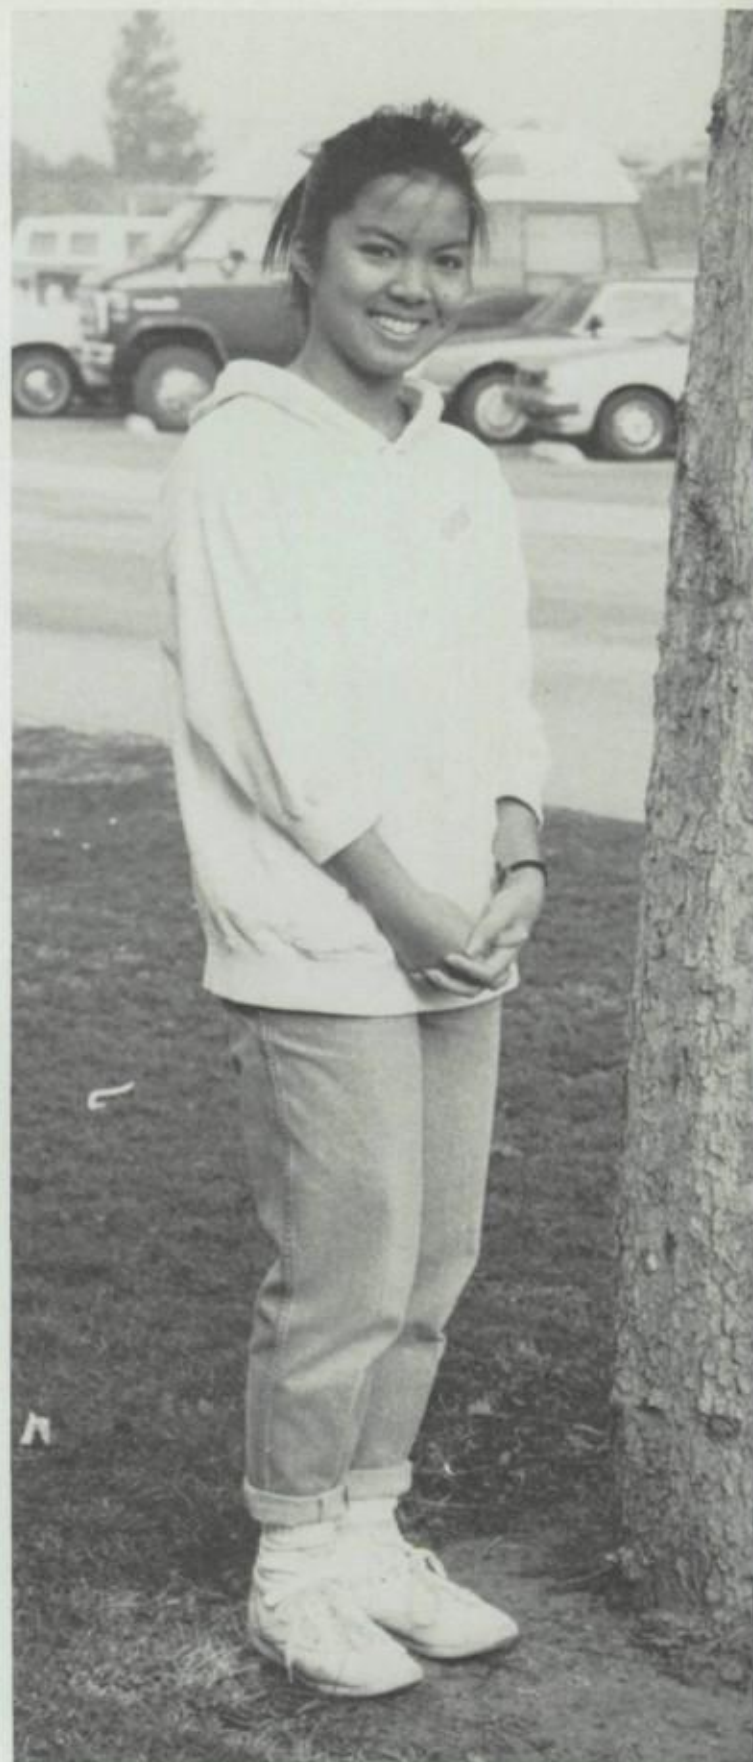

Although the club had more activities, some members felt that the club strayed away from its main purpose of unifying black students.

Orchesis Active Group

Orchesis, the PHS dance group, had an active year. With a large group of 30 members, the club participated in dance clinics, shows for various elementary schools, an evening performance in February and an assembly in May.

According to adviser Irene Kosemetatos, the group, which accepted 16 new members this year, worked very well together artistically.

Many of the new members had extensive dance backgrounds; and such forms as ballet, modern, country western, tap, jazz, and street dancing were part of the repertoire.

"I enjoy teaching dance," said Kosemetatos, who minored in dance and has worked with Orchesis several years. "Getting the students to perform and meet others is very exciting."

Orchesis president Jeri Bass joined four years ago because of her love for dance. Bass said she enjoyed dancing so much because "dancing inspires people to do more for themselves." Since becoming a member of Orchesis, Bass has worked to help and motivate others.

"It makes me feel good," said Bass, "to know that people enjoy what I do."

Everyone who was involved in his honorary group put in a great deal of extra time and energy to make it all come together.

Special Interest Clubs Prosper

The Cycling, Math and Science, Photo, and Physics clubs all led highly productive years.

Sam Kurutz, president of the Cycling Club, said that they went on a full 100 km ride and a 100 mile ride. He also stated that this year's group was very enthusiastic.

The Math and Science

Club was led by president Kari Clark. They listened to lectures presented by both faculty and students and prepared a laser project for the Science Fair.

Christine Shively, as president, led the Photo Club through a series of annual events such as Santa pictures and the Miss Viewfinder contest.

According to vice president Sumi Siegel, the club promoted school spirit by getting students involved.

The main goal of the Physics Club was to bring more science oriented people into the group. President Edson Gin said that most of the members were computer oriented, but engaged in a wide variety of activities.

ASB Cabinet Has Very Successful Fall Term

The booming success of the Homecoming Dance was just one of the many goals achieved by the fall ASB Cabinet. The dance, which boasted the highest attendance ever, was held at the Sheraton Premiere in Universal City.

Cabinet, furthermore, successfully executed Spirit Day, one of the more pleasurable days of the year for PHS students. Each class was designated a section of the school to decorate. Although all four classes exhibited excellent decorations, first prize and $500 went to the Senior Class.

Cabinet also was prosperous in approving spending, helping new principal Louise Coover adjust to PHS and closing the gap of communication between students and the administration.

Key Club and Z-Club

Both the Key and Z clubs have been more active this year than ever.

Their number of activities doubled from those of last year.

The Key Club decorated Christmas Tree Lane, worked a blood drive with the Z-Club, helped with the Red Cross Teen to Teen Hotline, ushered at several school activities and held a canned food drive. The highlight of the year was the members attendance at a luncheon honoring first lady Nancy Reagan at Ambassador College.

"This year has been a time for major rebuilding of the club," explained president Jim Rose. "We had not been very active in the past. We took the opportunity to take part in constructive activities together with our peers."

Officially in its second year, the Z-Club had equal success and enjoyment during the year. They adopted a child from Honduras in Central America and adopted a family during Christmas which they entertained for Christmas dinner. In addition, they parked cars for a foreign language conference, supervised wheel chair basketball and a bowling tournament at Bahama Lanes, volunteered to work at the gift shop at the Huntington Memorial Hospital and held a dance once a month for the handicapped at Victory Park.

"The spirit of Z-Club was back in 1987," said vice-president Tina Miller.

Academic Groups Thrive

wo academic groups both had successful years.

The Academic Decathlon Team did a great job at its first competition. The team's success at the regional competition was a result not only of the members intellectual abilities, but also of their enthusiasm and support for each other.

The team was put together by head coaches Nancy Hogg and Stefanie Saccoman. Troop Petrone, Debbie Conover, and David Newman also volunteered their time to coach the team.

In addition to taking tests in mathematics, science, social science, economics, language and literature, and fine arts, the students were required to write an essay, give a speech, go through an interview and participate in the "Super Quiz."

According to Susan Ballantyne, adviser of the University and College Opportunities program, UCO's main goal is to increase the number of students attending college.

During the past year UCO has tried to interest students from a wide variety of ethnic and socio-economic groups. Members of UCO are assisted by having their class schedules monitored to make sure they take appropriate college prep courses. College scholarship and search services were also provided. In addition, UCO seniors formed a network to advise underclassmen on "getting in."

The PHS chapter of Quill and Scroll, the national honor society for journalism, chose 19 students to receive the annual award.

"I was quite honored," said "Chronicle" news editor Estela Morales, "when I found out that I had been chosen."

Members of the yearbook staff, the Chronicle staff, the Red and White football program and the Creative Writing Club were eligible if they were juniors or seniors, had been participants for at least one year and were in the top third of their class.

The students were chosen on the basis of their work as well as their attitude and willingness to give extra time when it was needed.

"Among those picked for Quill and Scroll," said Adviser Ann Drury, "are students that are on the top of all the journalism classes I have ever had."

Because of the dedication of these honored students, school publications were once again of high quality with both the yearbook and newspaper entered in competitions.

These determined PHS journalists prepared themselves well through their many weekends of work to make the vital deadlines.

"It will be a challenge," said junior Marie Demonteverde, "to do even better next year. High standards have been set."

Three Clubs Build Interest

The main purpose of the Chess Club was simply to provide the opportunity for those who wished to get together and play chess. It also gave members a chance to improve their skills and to meet others. In addition, adviser Jack Davis and President Ulysses Holland arranged for competitions with other groups.

According to President David Curtis, "The purpose of Creative Writing Club is to stimulate student interest in literature and creative writing." The club produced another volume of Pandora's Box, the school literary magazine, composed solely of student works. The club's adviser was Claire Verdi.

The Library Club was primarily a school service club. The club led by President Arnolfo Soto and under the counsel of adviser Ruth Judkins, sponsored lunchtime discussions and a costume contest. In addition, the group held two potluck dinners and took a trip to Disneyland.

Honor Students Excel

CSF Strives to Help Others

▶ The California Scholarship Federation had another successful year in serving other students through their efficient tutoring program.

Although CSF was not able to excel in other areas of service, their work as tutors more than made up for it.

"We were a little slow in other things," said senior Hilary Smith, "but I believe our strength lay in our tutoring program."

Giving up their time to help their fellow students do better in school, CSF members achieved their goal of "service."

"The students' motivation was beyond that of any average student at PHS," said co-adviser Stefanie Saccoman. "They were always so enthusiastic and concerned in wanting to help their peers in succeeding without any complaints whatsoever. I'm proud of them and love them all."

"They came through successfully," added co-adviser Frances Sumner. "They upheld their commitment to their program by giving up their time unselfishly. It's been a pleasure to work with CSF the past two years with these wonderful students."

Because of hard work, CSF was able to raise money and have a successful spring banquet, honoring its members, especially the graduating seniors.

"We were successful," said secretary Aleni Estacio. "The tutoring was fun, yet hard and discouraging as well, because of the effort required of both the tutor and the student seeking help. Overall, though, it was a great experience."

'Chronicle' Builds Pride

Following tradition, the P H S

Chronicle staff successfully produced an informative newspaper, presenting the important changes and issues within the school as well as various topics from city, state and national news.

The staff persevered to succeed by spending extra time preparing and conducting interviews, writing articles and carefully checking details before the paper was sent to the printer.

"This year's staff was great," said editor in chief Hilary Smith. "We all worked hard and the results were seen through an excellent newspaper."

The Chronicle was entered in a national competition because of its high quality.

"Two years ago we won first place," said adviser Ann Drury, "and this year we were as good if not better."

Drama Club, Singers Show Star Qualities

The PHS Chamber Singers had an equally successful year. Putting on the ever popular production, "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown" and the Christmas Feste were just some of their exciting activities. They also performed a pop concert and serious concert, and sang for various groups in the community. The most exciting event of the year was singing for Kenny Rogers on Christmas Eve, according to manager Robert Hohertz.

Both the Drama Club and the Chamber Singers of PHS had prosperous years in their quests to improve, gain a bigger turnout and be noticed.

The Drama Club, led by president John Leonard, vice-president Gretchen Hinds, and talented adviser Abel Franco, participated in many activities, some of which included going to television tapings of the popular comedy sit-coms "You Again", "Charles in Charge" and "Growing Pains", as well as the play "La Victime" in which Franco starred. They also held many fundraisers, including a candy sale and car wash.

According to Leonard, the purpose of the club was to show students interested in the field, what drama and acting are all about.

'You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown' Proves a Success

PHS' fall musical, You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown, proved to be an overwhelming success. Attendance was booming as people of all ages flocked to see their favorite "Peanuts" characters. One viewer said, "This is the best PHS musical I have seen in 25 years."

The cast, which starred Joel Hunter as Charlie Brown, Amy Blackshaw as Lucy, David Barnathan as Linus, Tony Vayos as Schroeder, Demetrius Cook as Snoopy and Gennie Thompson as Patty, was of supreme caliber and one of the most talented casts ever assembled on the PHS stage.

"I really enjoyed doing the show," claimed Blackshaw. "My character Lucy was really obnoxious, so I got to have a lot of fun with it."

Vayos said that though this show was not as serious as the usual productions at PHS, it made his role difficult. "Without all the sets and props, it was more challenging to depict my character," he said.

"I was really glad to see a large audience," said Barnathan. "A good audience makes it so much easier for an actor to perform up to his or her ability. And with such a talented cast as this, there was a lot of talent, dedication and professionalism shown."

Thanks in part to Carolyn Shannon, musical director, and Cassandra Renzett, director and choreographer, Charlie Brown was a delightful and entertaining treat for everyone.

Music Groups Thrive

PHS Orchestra and Choir Continue with Pride, Excellence

Both the PHS choir and orchestra worked diligently to perform their music to the best of their abilities in all of their performances throughout the year.

The choir, under the leadership of Carolyn Shannon, enjoyed another successful year. Among their activities were the Feast of Christmas, the All-City Choir Festival, a pop concert and a serious Mozart concert.

"Our concerts and productions," said senior Jim Koemans, "brought a lot of enjoyment to my final year in high school."

Under the direction of new director David Miller, the PHS orchestra continued their quality performances. The group participated in the events such as the Spring Music Festival and Solo Ensemble Concert.

"The orchestra," said Miller, "was filled with exceptionally talented and capable musicians."

"Our talent matured," said instrumentalist Jack Taylor, "and as a result we became a very productive group."

"Orchestra filled my life with great pleasure," said J.P. Duboucheron. "I can't imagine not being part of that group."

NJROTC Shows the True Meaning of Leadership

During the past year, the NJROTC has been very active both on and off campus.

The group performed color guard duties at school assemblies and at football games.

Community activities included the Veteran's Day ceremony at Pasadena City Hall, the Black History Parade in Pasadena, the Toys for Tots Parade and the Granada Hills Holiday Parade. The group also participated in drill competitions and went to boot camp.

Aside from making young people aware of the Navy's role in national defense, the goal of the program was to develop informed and responsible citizens, and to instill a sense of patriotism, pride and discipline in them.

Stage, ROP Successful

Both the PHS Stage Crew and the Regional Occupational Programs had successful years through their activities which allowed participating students a chance to learn unique jobs.

The Stage Crew was responsible for setting up all events held in Edward's Auditorium, including special assemblies, Dodger Night, the fall and spring musicals and the Orchesis Dance Production.

"Because it was a small group," said adviser Ed Jucksch, "it was easier for the students to unite."

The ROP program has been an important asset to students.

The program offered classes in such things as accounting and computers.

Headed by Jerry Kinzel and technician Lorraine Roum, ROP was able to produce many well-trained students with specialized skills to help them obtain good jobs in the future.

CSF Active Spring Term

CSF (California Scholarship Federation) was very active spring semester in awarding students for good grades, tutoring other pupils to improve their grades and preparing for its annual awards banquet in May.

The banquet was held to recognize sealbearers and potential sealbearers for four years of hard work in maintaining grades. For their efforts the sealbearers received gold cords to wear at graduation and a pin of CSF insignia.

The CSF tutors, who tried all year to help other students improve their grades, were given a party held in Victory Park. The 23 tutors also helped at lunch and after school to further publicize the Federation.

In addition, a banquet separate from CSF was held in June to reward seniors for their outstanding accomplishments, contributions, and awards.

ASB Cabinet Increases Spirit

The ASB Spring Cabinet continued to work hard to increase the spirit of the school and allow students more rights and activities.

Popular spring events set up by the Cabinet included various volleyball tournaments, where different athletic teams played against each other for prizes. In addition, the Almost Spring Dance was set up by social affairs commissioner Dione Montgomery. According to Roy Sunada, vice-principal in charge of student services, the dance was very successful. "Dione and her committee did literally everything for the creation of the dance," he said. "I was very pleased with the way they handled it and the number of people that came."

Cabinet furthermore added four new members in the spring: Aleni Estacio, Stacey Laumann, Todd Miller, and Shannon Young. Each had a desire to contribute to the success of the school year. "Having people getting involved and having fun is very important to me," said Laumann, the new elections commissioner. "Through elections I was able to promote school government and inform more students to run for offices."

Five new members, Tina Miller, David Barnathan, Felipe Klemperer, Suzie Porush and Clarence Dixon, were added to strengthen PHS' already superb newspaper. According to adviser Ann Drury, the new Chronicle members added to a lot to the second semester and helped in making the paper better.

ive new about writing. "I've always wanted to join, and I now wish I'd done it sooner," said Miller, who is also photo-file coordinator of the yearbook staff. "I plan to major in communications and being a member of the staff helped improved my writing skills."

"I wanted to gain more 'behind the scenes' training to prepare for the future," Barnathan said. "Writing for the Chronicle showed me what a newspaper is all about."

Among the creative club activities this year, the Library Club held perhaps the most creative — a Halloween contest. An unexpected seventy-five to one hundred eager students showed up wearing costumes of all kinds. It was truly an awesome spectacle to watch.

members and advisers of the Library Club, judged the contestants on originality and over-all appearance. First prize went to Roberta Edinger, who portrayed a harem girl. Clubs' Activities Abound

While participation in club activities had been slim in past years, this year had a tremendous amount of it.

Several Clubs Days were planned by clubs commissioner Michelle Maynard and the individual club presidents. The purpose was to advertise the various clubs and to give them the opportunity to raise money.

On many occasions PHS students at lunch wandered to club exhibits, bought food and souvenirs, and learned more about clubs that interested them.

"The clubs did an excellent job in preparing their individual exhibits and gathering information for prospective members," said Maynard. Orchestris, for example, sponsored a game of musical chairs and offered baked goods as prizes. The Cycling Club had information about bicycles and bike riding; the Armenian Club sold baklava; the Ski Club sold strawberry delight drinks; and the French Club sold bon bons, to name a few of the many clubs that displayed their creativity and spirit.

"Overall, the Clubs Days held this year at PHS were very successful," Maynard commented. "Most of the clubs made money and thus could do more interesting things in the future. I have thoroughly enjoyed working with all the club presidents."

Pep Council, Publicity Board, Victory Squad Boost Spirit For Athletic Teams

The Pep Council, Publicity Board and Victory Squad all worked throughout the year to promote school spirit at PHS by using their creativity and charisma.

The Pep Council, led by pep commissioner Laura Chaparian, helped plan special events and interacted with the pep squad to organize activities.

"The Council members gave me a lot of help," said Chaparian, "especially with Homecoming and the Hello/Goodbye Assembly."

Publicity commissioner Sadaf Izadi was able to provide posters for athletic events with the help of the Publicity Board.

"I could never have done so many posters without them," said Izadi. "The members helped cut the time down and produced colorful and creative posters to encourage people to support the PHS teams."

The 15 member Victory Squad, led by captains Alecia Fish and Liz Moore, used their strong voices to keep the cheers going even when the PHS team was not winning.

"It was all worth it," said Fish, "especially after seeing the high spirit after we won a game."

Students Show Cultures

According to the presidents of the Latin American Students Association, Nancy Marquez and Irma Barajas, and president of the Vietnamese Club, Nhan Nguyen, both clubs attempted to unite students of similar backgrounds while sharing their culture with other students on campus.

LASA collected money for the victims of the El Salvador earthquake at the beginning of the year while at the same time worked on a scholarship fund for Latinos. The group also went to Magic Mountain and attended various cultural events in Los Angeles.

Members of the Vietnamese Club enjoyed playing volleyball after school with other Vietnamese clubs in the area. However, the club's main goal was to assist other Vietnamese.

"Our goal," said secretary Giang Nguyen, "is to help the Vietnamese that come and speak little English."

Ski Club Lacks in Numbers

The '86-'87 Ski Club seemed to lack in numbers this year. The club, led by president Patricia Mattler and vice president Harry Suh, went on its annual trip to Lake Tahoe. Unfortunately, due to a lack of members, that was the only trip taken.

"It wasn't like we didn't have any money to go on other trips," said Matler. "We just didn't have the number of people needed to go on other trips."

New Clubs Acquire Many

Two first year clubs and one second year club made outstanding contributions to the enjoyment of the PHS school year.

The Debate Club, formed by co-presidents Toby Rogers and Anna Wilson, had an excellent response in its first year as a club. The club was designed to help members to develop communication skills, as well as improve speech and the manipulation of ideas.

The computer club also got off on the right foot in its first year as a club. "Our first year as a club was very successful," said president Almon Lin. "We started a tutoring service for students taking computer courses and held many lectures about computers."

The second-year surf club had an increasing turnout. According to president Kenneth Freund, the club took several overnight trips to San Onofre and on many occasions surfed at the Huntington pier.

Douglas, Court Reign over Almost Spring Dance

For the first time in ten years, the ASB sponsored a mid-year dance. The committee that put the dance together (led by Dione Montgomery) put in many hours of hard work to make the dance a success. The efforts of the team in making arrangements, printing and selling tickets and advertising were invaluable to the success of the dance.

The purpose of the event, which was held at the Pasadena Hilton, was to have a mid-year dance that was not quite as formal as Homecoming or the Prom. Entertainment for the evening was presented by Starlite Productions. And, the highlight of the evening was the presentation of the all male king and court, which were selected by the female portion of the social science classes. The king was Anthony Douglas; senior prince was Jon Dixon; junior prince was Darryl Philipps; sophomore prince was John McCoy; and freshman prince was Charles Clay. Many girls on campus enjoyed being able to judge the guys instead of having the guys judge them. Freshman prince Charles Clay said, "I was glad there was something where the guys had a chance to win."

The dance was a success from the perspective of both the faculty and the students. "The dance established groundwork for future dances and that's really important," said Roy Sunada, vice principal. "All in all, I was really impressed."

Varsity Football Comes Together as a Family

The PHS varsity football team started the season with what the L.A. Times called the toughest schedule in CIF, with seven of its opponents making it to the playoffs. The Bulldogs showed all year they were even better than their record stated as they played through their share of ups and downs, always coming together as a family in the end.

The season started with impressive victories over Damien, 24-6, and preseason rival St. Francis, 24-15. The Bulldogs' powerful wishbone offense was led by halfbacks Anthony Wallace and W.C. Morrison with blocking from linemen Keith Law, Dan Ford, Ralph Sanders and Steve Lauing. Next they lost a most disappointing game in the fourth quarter against Diamond Bar, 16-14.

With an ankle injury to David Griffiths in the Diamond Bar game, it made way for Cris Sunada to step in at quarterback. The team went into Temple City to challenge its No. 1 ranking and unbeaten record, but lost a heartbreaker, 20-15.

Going into league with an even record of 2-2, PHS' dream was a league championship. The team started with a strong victory over Hoover, 38-6. Then it beat a surprisingly tough Glendale, rolling on to win 19-3. As the team's intensity was building the Bulldogs soundly defeated Crescenta Valley, 46-11. Knowing that Arcadia would be tough, the team had a good week of practice. PHS kept the dream alive with a 21-19 victory, after the Apaches missed a game-winning step in at quarterback. The regular season closed out with a crushing defeat at the hands of John Muir, ending all hopes and the dream of a league championship.

The hardworking team had several outstanding players. Wallace, Morrison, and Lamar Watkins were its leaders with Wallace finishing the season leading the San Gabriel Valley in rushing with over 1700 yards. Strong defensive players included Watkins, Willie Minor, Max Jones and Adesino Luke.

PHS Sophomores Lack Depth

Lack of depth was a major factor for the sophomore football team as it ended the season with a disappointing 1-9 record. Coming off an undefeated season last year as freshmen, one-third of the players on last year's team were moved up to varsity, thus creating problems for the sophomores this year.

Despite losing the first nine games, the team blew out cross-town rival John Muir, 17-0, ending the season on a very strong note.

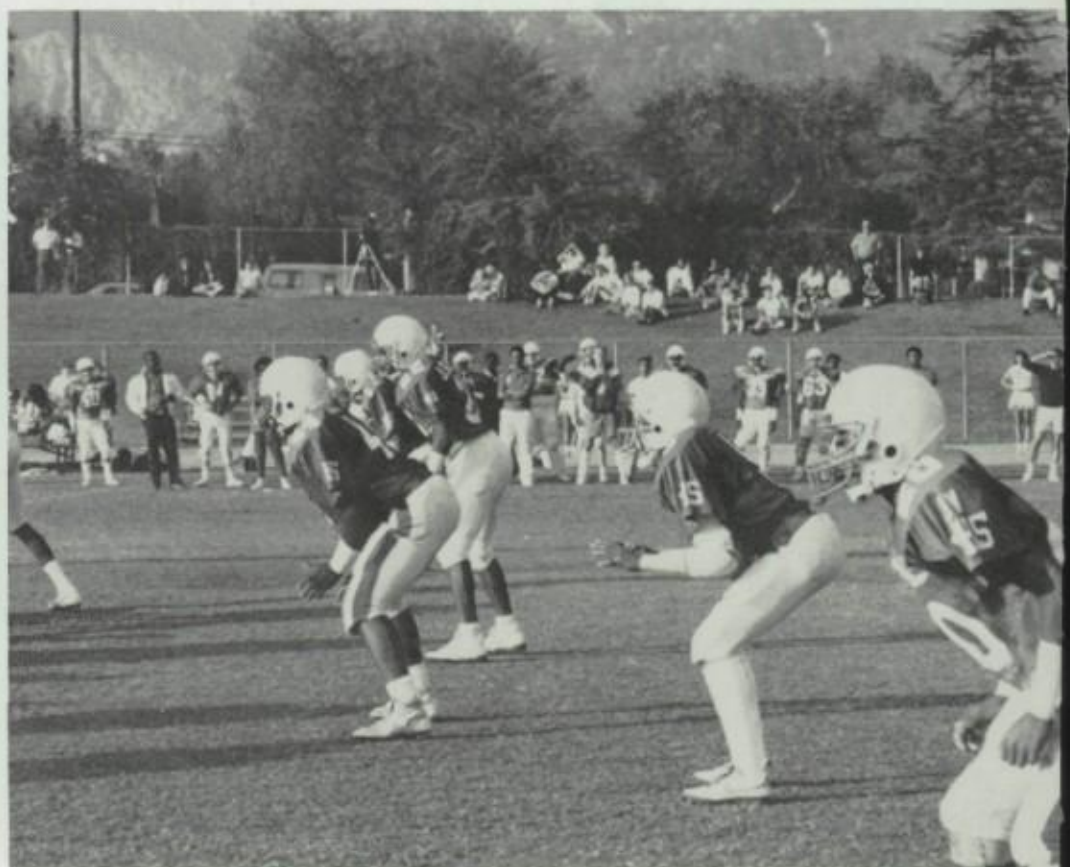

Outstanding players on the team included defensive lineman Tony Whitaker and inside linebacker Kyle Washington, who felt the team was better than the record showed. "We never played up to our potential until the Muir game," he said. "Our mental mistakes caused us to lose most of the games."

Although the team lost most of its games, head coach Randy Wiley and assistant coach Jim Langley acknowledged that the team never gave up and showed strong mental toughness as well as team unity.

Frosh Football Ends Year 5-5

The freshman football team lost its first three games of the season, but then beat Monrovia, 28-0, and went on to post a 5-5 record.

Torus Stepney and Demetrio Jennings were consistently the best players all year. Quarterback Jennings averaged over 100 yards per game by passing and rushing, while Stepney, a tailback, averaged over 100 yards rushing and finished the season with over 1000 yards. Stepney's best game was against San Gabriel when he rushed for over 100 yards and three touchdowns.

"I was extremely pleased with the hard work put out by Demetrio and Torus," said first year coach Steve Seaford. "I look forward to seeing them improve more in the future."

Defensive leaders were hard hitting linebacker Chris Owney, Vince Smith and defensive lineman Sean Kelly. Center Jose Ruiz was a powerful asset in leading the offensive line.

Varsity Polo Says 'Surprise' to '86 Season

Before the 1986 water polo season there were many doubts about the quality of the varsity water polo team. Many, including some of the returning players, felt that this year's team could not measure up to competition of the season. Even the newspapers counted the team out before the season began. All had figured Muir would place first (and it did); Glendale, second; Hoover, third; Arcadia fourth; and Pasadena would finish the season in fifth or sixth place.

But to everyone's surprise Coach Brian Biery, along with the leadership of four-year varsity player Craig Hinkel, three-year varsity players Lance Meredith, Jimmy Rose and two-year varsity player Matt Vodnoy, led the PHS team to a repeated 13-6 record, having beaten Crescenta Valley, Arcadia and Glendale, a glorious victory, in league play.

Unfortunately, the team failed to reach CIF because of two losses in league playoffs, one of which was due to the absence of goalie Alex Lyle. The second defeat was a hard-fought game by the Bulldogs, losing to Hoover, 12-9.

The team finished fourth overall. Hinkel made first team All-League with Meredith and Rose making second team All-League. First-year players Bryan Kustner and Lyle, along with junior Vodnoy, received All-League Honorable Mention.

Although the JV water polo team finished the season with a 3-10 overall record, the players' ability to work together was evident. Spencer Vodnoy, Julio Gallardo, Jeremy Holder and Geoff Waugaman were all MVP's, while Devon Kobayashi won Most Inspirational. The team had two very close games, one against Arcadia, which PHS lost, 13-12, in double overtime, and the other game against Muir, 10-9,

The JV team will give great support to next year's varsity. The varsity will be losing four seniors, all of whom received All-League recognition. Prominent leaders for next year's varsity squad include the four MVP's and Alan Sutovsky. Preparations for naming next year's water polo coach are pending. Both the varsity and JV teams will miss coach Brian Biery and hope that his replacement will be as caring and meaningful as he.

X-Country Stumbles

Although they put in endless hours of hard work, the varsity cross country team did not make CIF and finished the season with a 1-4 league record, the win coming against rival John Muir.

However, the record did not demonstrate the team's ability and desire to win. Seniors Manny Powers and David Barnathan and sophomore Chad Nash exemplified this attitude by continuously challenging the opponents for the lead. Barnathan was very impressive in making second team All-League while Powers won MVP of the team and Nash took Most Improved honors.

This year was the first time PHS had ever had a girls' team. Although the team finished with a 0-4 record, the top runner, Suzette Basore, had a superb season as she dominated the Pacific League for her third league championship in a row.

Girl Netters Place 4th In League

The girls' varsity tennis team finished fourth in league with a 4-6 record. First year coach Bob Blake was pleased with the team's hard work. "Working with the girls my first year was a great challenge because I did not know anyone's capability. Nevertheless, I was really pleased to watch the improvement," he said.

Phuong Lieu was the MVP of the team with 23 points. Janet Takenouchi and Barbara Villalobos had 17 each and Hillary Manning was next with 12. Takenouchi topped off her fine season by winning Most Inspirational.

Ruth Konyoumdjian, Yvette Rebong and Yvonne Rebong led the JV netters to a 3-7 record.

"The comederie and esprit de corps of this year's team made our season a great success," said Coach Helen Hustedt. "The enthusiasm and dedication of all were apparent whether we won or lost. No coach could ask for a finer group."

"I felt that being on the tennis team improved my tennis skills and helped me to make many new friends," said Yvonne Rebong.

Volleyball Dumps Muir

This year's varsity volleyball team proved hard work and dedication do pay off as it was recognized as one of the most improved teams in the league. This was the best volleyball team PHS has had in years as it won five matches this year compared to one last year and zero the last two years. The team upset number three ranked Crescenta Valley and won a game over the traditionally excellent Arcadia Apaches, marking the first time in over seven years PHS has been able to do that. The team capped off its much improved season by whipping arch rival John Muir.

Outstanding netters included Toby Tibbet, who made second team All-League, and Karen McGoldrick, who made Honorable Mention.

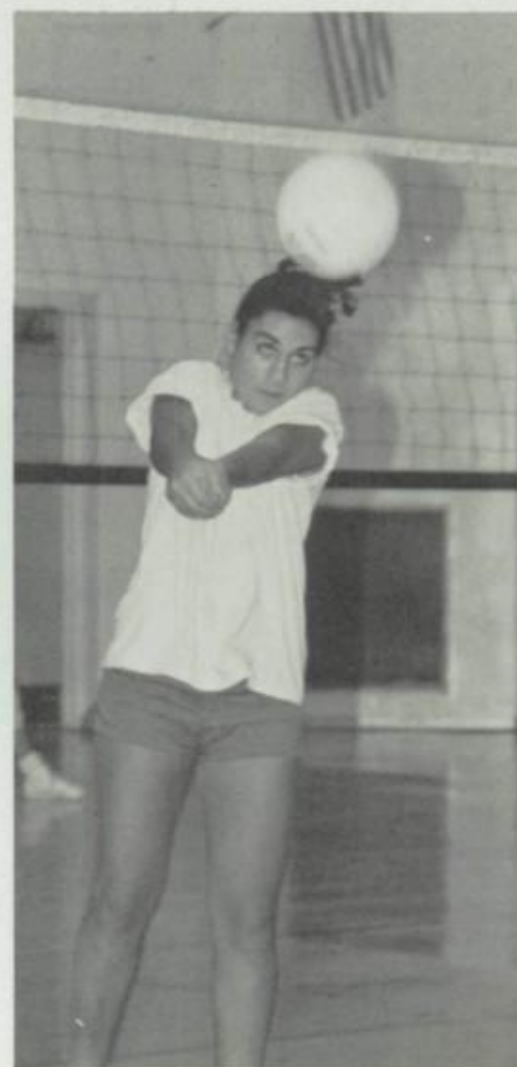

The JV team did not have as much luck as varsity as it finished the season with a 1-9 record. The girls did beat Muir, however, in their best-played match of the year. Excellent players included setter Janet Latreille and power hitter Pam Simily.

Varsity Basketball Nearly Makes Playoffs

The Pasadena High School varsity basketball team finished the season with a league record of 5-5 and an overall record of 7-15, as well as a fourth place finish in the tough Pacific League. The Bulldogs had a chance to make it to the playoffs for the first time in four years. Pasadena and Crescenta Valley finished tied for third and were forced to play to see who would go to CIF. Though PHS had earlier defeated CV, 94-79, the Falcons roared back to win the tiebreaker, 75-66.

"We worked hard all season but had a disappointing loss at the end," said Coach Bill Duwe. "The main reason was that we didn't screen them out and let them penetrate to the basket. We just weren't crisp enough. These players worked hard to win and I'm very proud of them."

The leaders of the team included Todd Barnes, Nate Thompson, Romey Johnson and Keivin Boone. Boone was the high scorer with an average of 11 points per game.

JV Basketball Record 12-8

The PHS JV basketball team overcame many obstacles in the beginning of the season to finish the season with a respectable 12-8 record and a third place finish behind Muir and Glendale.

The Bulldogs' best games were against Crescenta Valley, 89-45, and a thrashing of arch rival John Muir, 82-55. Key players included Rufus Williams, Jerome Benning, Gary Vlcek, Don Mitchell and Ren Brown.

"Although the team made many mistakes at the beginning of the season," said Coach Art Large, "they rapidly matured, eliminated their mistakes and turned into a winning team."

"Our scoring and rebounding abilities were fantastic," he continued. "Because our team had reasonably good height, we were able to penetrate the other team's defense easier and score more often."

All of the team members agreed that the successful season was due to hard work, the desire to win, teamwork, and the superb coaching of Coach Large.

Teams Show Unity, Improvement

oth the soph/frosh basketball team and the JV soccer team had respectable seasons and finished in the top half of the Pacific League.

The basketball team and Coach Hamp Morris enjoyed a 10-10 record which placed them third in league. The leaders of the team included Vincent Row and Jeff Sorenson, both of whom were the high scorers with 12 points per game and played stellar defense throughout the season.

"I think overall it was a good season," said Sorenson. "We played to the best of our ability most of the time and the team worked very hard. You can't ask for more than that."

The JV soccer team finished with an 8-6-2 record and third place in league. The highlight of the year was beating Muir, 1-0.

Soccer Ends 6-7-3

Coach Jim Langley led the Pasadena High School varsity soccer team through the season with a 5-10-3 record.

This season was the first season that Langley coached varsity soccer, coaching soccer for the first time last year with JV. He openly admitted he knew little of the strategies of the game, but he was trying to learn.

"The team as a whole played very well together," said co-captain Jimmy Rose. "There were some really outstanding players out there."

"The highlight of the season came when we shut out both Arcadia and Muir, two of the best teams in the league," recalled Toby Rogers the other co-captain of the team.

The team did extremely well considering that the starters were plagued by injury throughout the year.

Girls League Champs

The PHS girls varsity basketball team earned the title of Pacific League Champs. Led by Coach Dudley Stewart, the team beat Muir for the first time in five years and finished the league season undefeated.

The team did extremely well, especially considering that there was only one senior on the team — Rachonne Jones. Jones, who was also the leading scorer on the team with a 21 point average said, "The season went great for everyone. We felt especially good about the game against Muir and the fact that, as a team, we were able to fulfill all of our goals."

Coach Stewart was proud of all the girls but, felt that Rachonne and leading rebounder Anitra Wilkins had done an excellent job.

Girls' Track Has Strong Season

With approximately 25 members, the girls' track team had a strong year, working hard to face their competition and improving abilities at the same time.

Senior Suzette Basore, four year letterman and state-ranked runner, helped the team with her great distance running while juniors Eunice Poole and Ferlinda Fletcher excelled in the spring and D. Dixon in the hurdles.

"Our biggest motivation," said Coach Irene Kosmetatos, "was the desire to win and work hard to make CIF and state."

Basore, tenth in state competition last year, looked to improve her 10:43 two-mile time. She ran the 880 and the mile as well in order to increase the chances of PHS girls winning the meets.

"Since it was my last year in high school competition," said Basore, "I trained even harder to win."

Junior Dixon had her best start ever by winning the 110 and 330 hurdles in the first meet. She continued her success throughout the season.

"I was pleased," said Dixon, "with the way things turned out. I hope to improve next year."

The team also had outstanding freshmen Melinda Smith and Genie Thompson which promise to build a strong future for PHS girls' track in coming years.

The season was enhanced by special meets in unique locations such as Las Vegas.

Boys' Track Competitive

Despite a lack of depth, the boys' track teams had excellent seasons in running to the best of their ability and competing with a fierce amount of intensity.

According to Coach Art Large, the leaders of the team included senior W.C. Morrison in the sprints, junior Kevin Dallas in the hurdles, and seniors Manny Powers and David Barnathan in the distance events.

Also making strong contributions were Adesino Luke, Steve Wilson, Todd

Barnes, and Marvin Tucker.

"Our season was outstanding," said Large. "We had the greatest group of kids, not necessarily because of talent, but because they were eager to learn and worked hard. We raced against many tough teams like Duarte, LB Poly, and Muir, and was very proud with the way our team ran."

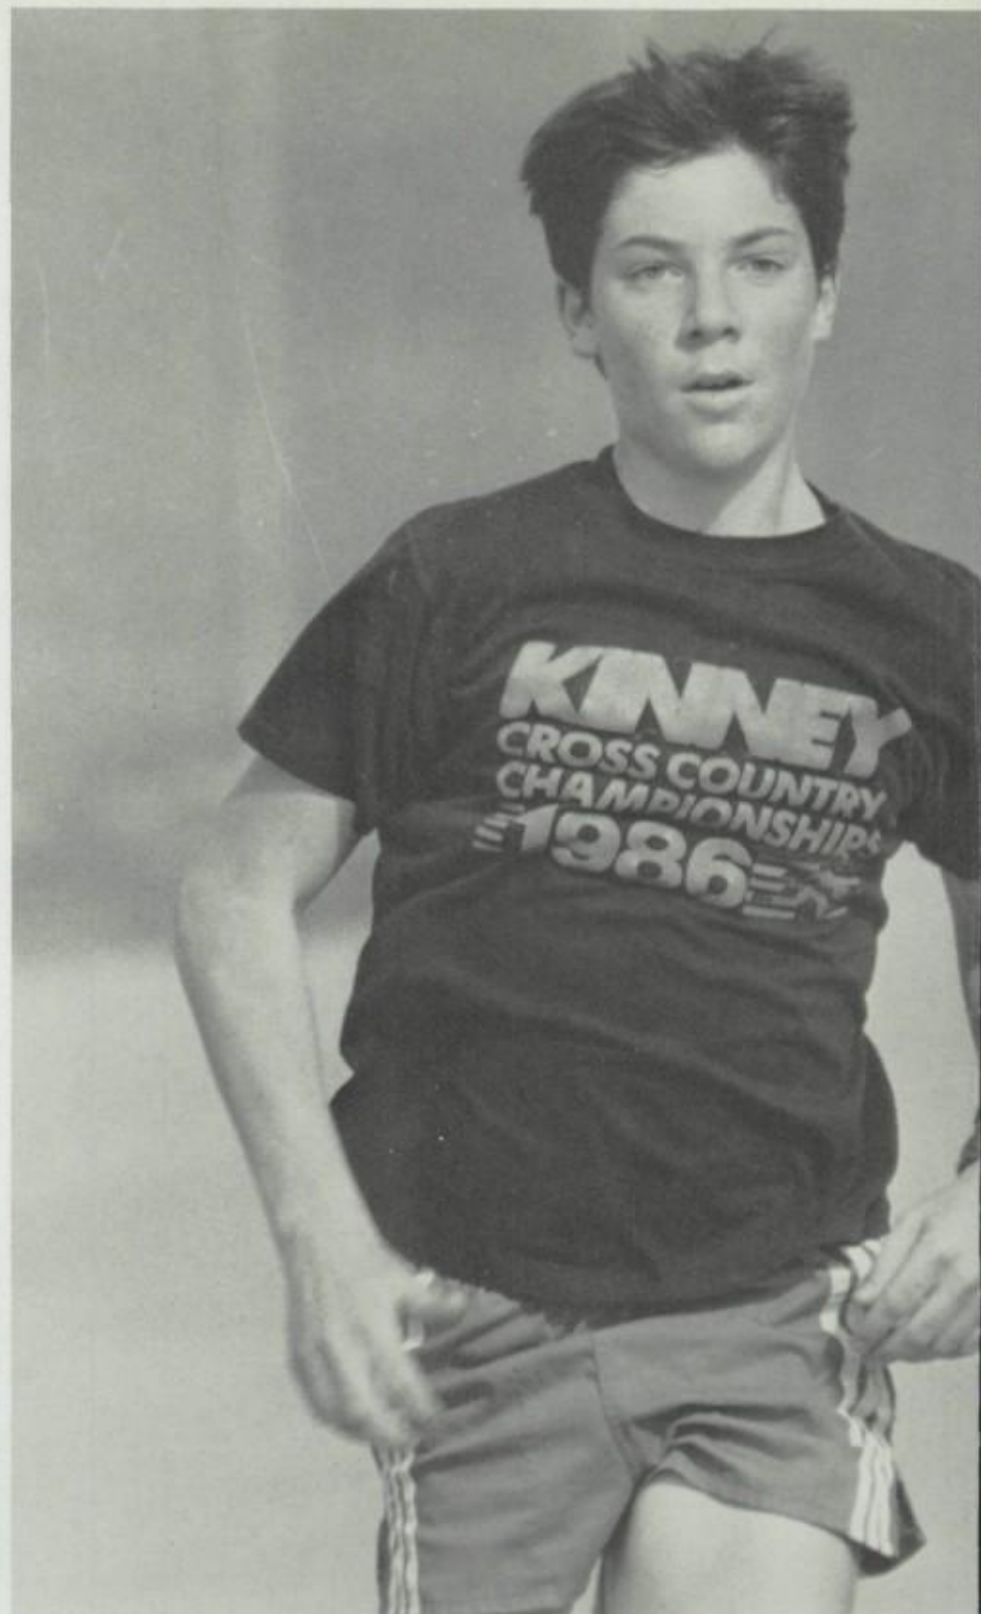

In the meet against Duarte, Morrison won the 100, 200, and anchored the 440 and mile relay teams, while Powers won the mile and 2-mile.

New Coach Brings Spirit

This year's badminton team proved having a new coach and many new players can still lead to a successful season.

New head coach Steve Seaford, who also coached the JV football and soccer teams, brought spirit and enthusiasm to the team. "The season was a lot of fun," he said, "and because of my experiences in racquet sports such as tennis, racquetball, and squash, I felt I was best qualified for the position."

The players were again successful because of the return of many of last year's best players, including Elena Mercado, Angela Jeter, Heather Dagen, Kevin Dixon, Michael Baker, and J.P. Duboucheron. New players such as Armine Boldi and Armine Ishkanian also contributed greatly to the team's success.

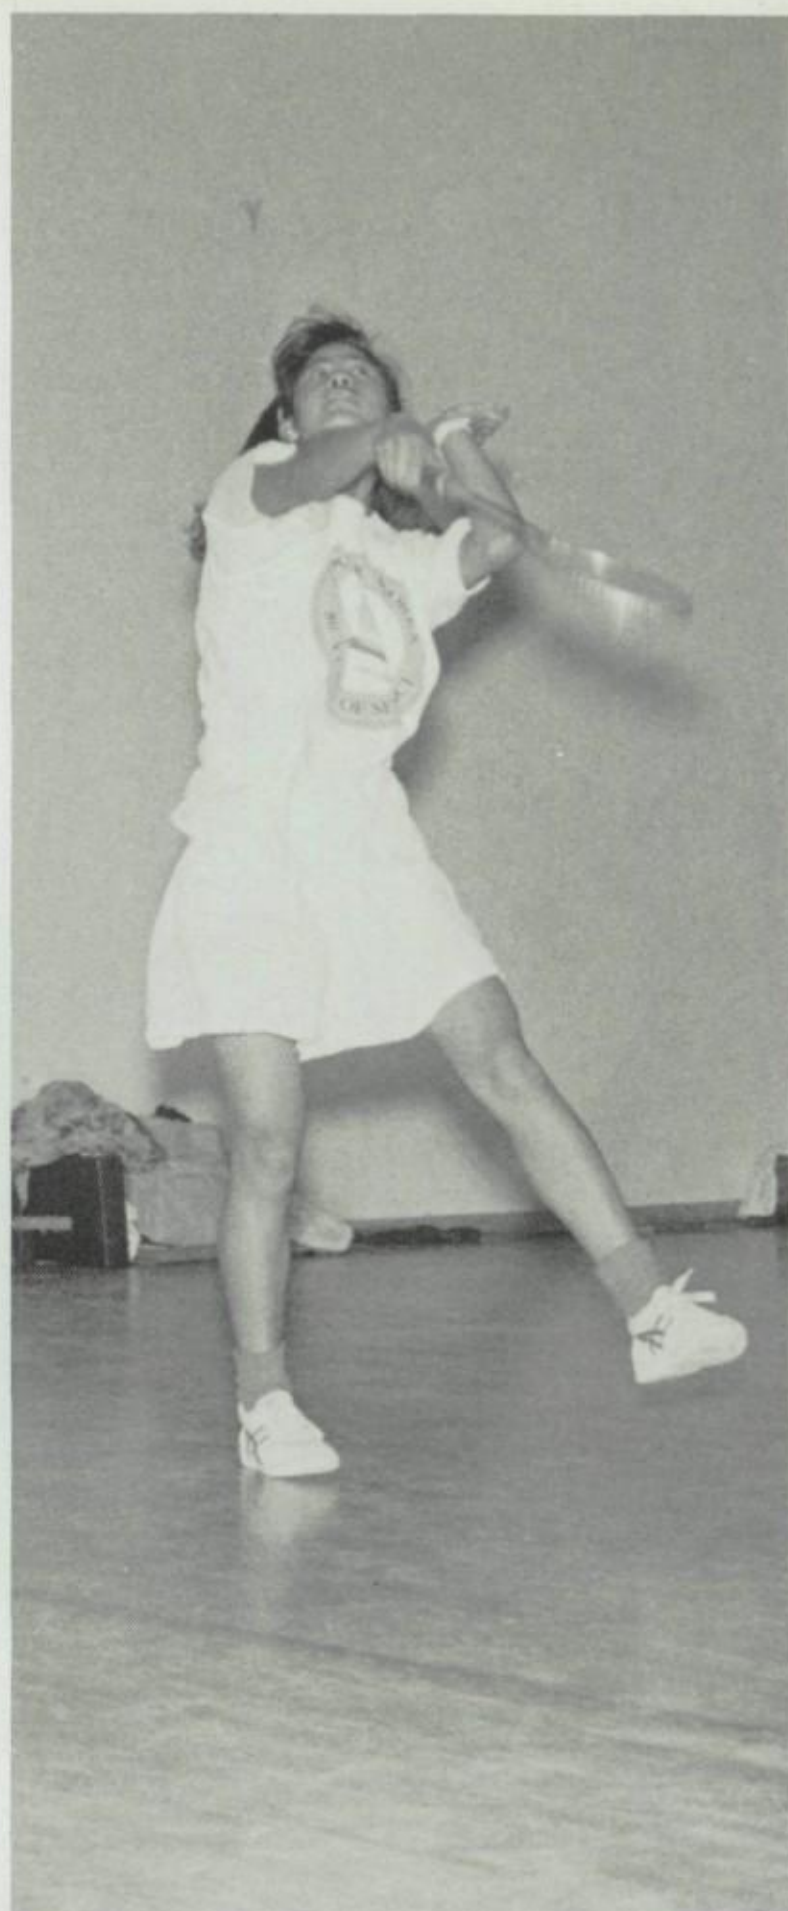

All of the team agreed that Glendale was the toughest opponent because of their excellent coaching staff and their continually great players year after year.

Girl Swimmers Committed

This year the girls' swim team got off to a strong start at the beginning of the season. "A lot of new people have come in and there is a lot of enthusiasm and spirit," said junior Bianca Altmetz. "I think we're going to have a good team." Altmetz, Cindy Livermore, Suzie Porush, Anita Forsmanan, exchange student from Sweden, and team captain Nadia Zedan are some of the star swimmers who led the team through the year.

A new coaching staff also helped to boost enthusiasm on the team. The new coaches, Claire Hoffman and Scott Bickel, who have both had experience in competitive swimming, tried a few new coaching tactics this year. "We are providing conditioning for personal and team improvement. We are taking a more mental approach to swimming," said Hoffman.

Bickel supported her by saying, "The team members' supporting each other is more important than winning." Team members appreciated the efforts of the coaches and developed a great respect for them.

At the beginning of the season the team was especially looking forward to the meet against Muir, an especially strong team. Although the meet was expected to be a tough one, team members were optimistic. They felt that through a combination of hard work and team spirit they could successfully take on the Mustangs. "Our team works great together as a whole," said Zedan. "When one person wins we all feel like winners. This team unity and spirit has helped us succeed in past years and will definitely help us this season. If we work together and cheer each other on, anything can be accomplished."

Boys Team Gets Fresh Start

The boy's swim team got a fresh start this season with a new coaching staff and the leadership of co-captains Jim Rose and Matt Vodnoy. Coach Scott Bickel, a former triathlete, said, "We have several very talented swimmers on the team this year," yet, he emphasized the importance of commitment and team unity.

Co-captains Rose and Vodnoy, both three year members of the Bulldog water polo and swim teams, were optimistic about the season. Vodnoy said, "I feel this team has a great deal of potential. Hopefully it will help us earn a strong record in league." Rose followed by saying, "The enthusiasm we've been seeing from everyone is really encouraging. No matter how fast we can swim, without that enthusiasm, we wouldn't have a chance." Over the next two years, it is hoped that they will be able to build up a strong, winning team.

Varsity Faces Challenge

 he varsity tennis team was one of the youngest PHS has ever had with only four senior members.

Leading the team, senior Esteban De Icaza, worked together with fellow seniors Chris Biles, Krikor Barsoumian and Cesar Benitez to succeed in their competition.

The team began their season by beating Burbank and Blair in non-league competition before facing the tough challenge of the Pacific League.

"The team came a long way," said Barsoumian, "and the players really worked together to improve the team as a whole. I'm sure that the juniors next year will prove to be superior, enhancing our team's status."

Among the younger players, junior Alex Young proved to be very strong in competition.

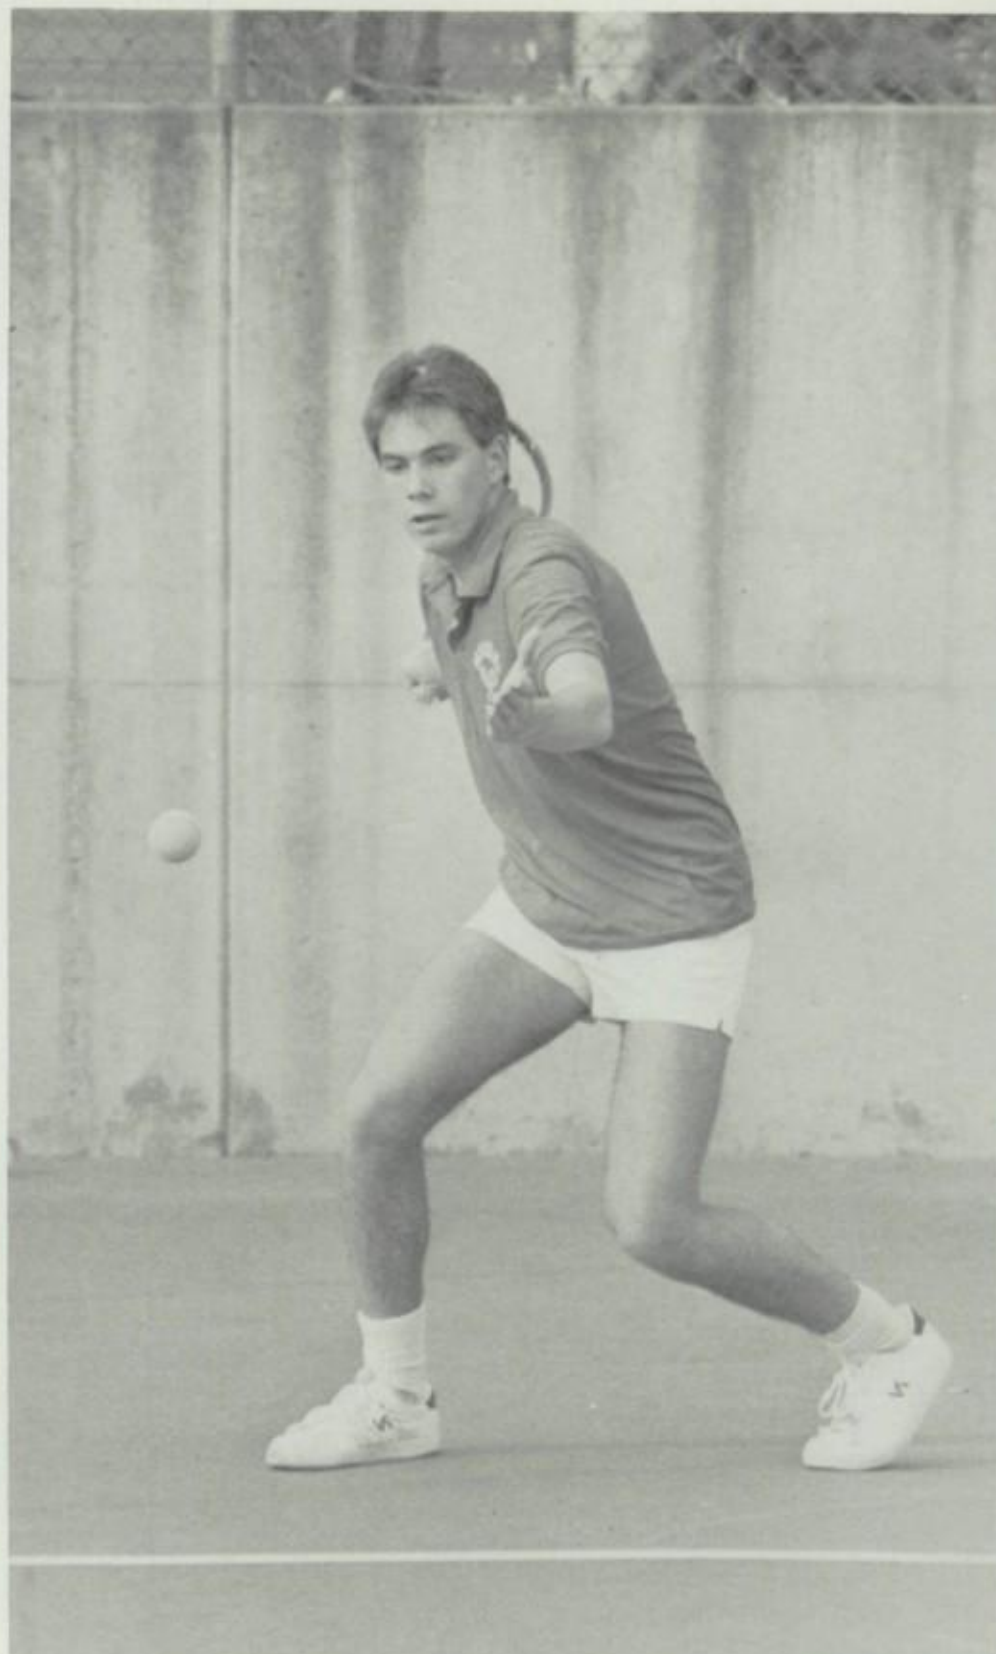

"This season," said Young, "was quite a rewarding experience."

Joe Estacio, the only sophomore, also worked hard to improve."

JV Tennis, Baseball Dedicated

Both the junior varsity baseball and junior varsity tennis teams had dedicated and determined players which helped them compete well throughout the season.

The JV baseball team, led by the pitching of Pablo Poloni and Jeff Sorenson, the speed of Tino Harris and John McCoy, as well as the strong batting of Sammy Carrillo, had a very successful season.

"This year," said Poloni, "was definitely better than last year because we worked so much harder."

"Our team as a whole," said Carrillo, "was extremely strong and talented this season."

The JV tennis team also had a powerful team, with many recruited members who had previous experience in the sport. Because of this, time did not have to be wasted on instruction, leaving room to work more thoroughly on perfection of skills.

"We came a long way," said coach Eugene Peterson, "and progressed a great deal through the course of the season. It was rewarding to watch the dedication that these young athletes put out to win."

With players ranging from freshmen to juniors, the team had a lot of diversity and talent.

"Being my first year," said freshman Chad Nash, "I found that tennis demands a lot of work yet it can be relaxing, too. It helps in forgetting about other things that are going on."

Varsity Baseball Plays Well Together

This year, the varsity baseball team was especially strong defensively. Coach Robert Beran described the team as "a good bunch of kids. They seem to play well together. We'll be sound defensively, but offensively, we may have more difficulty scoring runs."

The cooperation of a team of talented infielders helped the Bulldogs to succeed. Among those who were looked to for leadership were Sean Dixon, an All-League second baseman last year; John Puente and Peter Zuidema, pitchers; Victor Gordo, Alex Lyle and Hovel Babikian.

Outfielder Kenny Philips, catcher David Griffiths, infielder Alex Guerrero and pitcher John Wortham also played an important part in this year's season. These juniors will be looked to next year for leadership and will be expected to carry on the team's tradition of commitment and unity.

Varsity, JV Softball Teams Have Winning Seasons

Coached by Dudley Stewart, the varsity softball team was fortunate to have many girls returning from last year's team, including Jackie Wilson, Jean Sheridon, Toby Tippet, Tandria Rutherford, and Stephanie Joseph. In addition, freshman sensation Steffanie Gunn surprised everyone with her excellent ability. "We started slow, but by the time league came we were one of the best," acknowledged Stewart.

The JV team had only one player returning from last year's team, Angelica Salas, but new players Kai Salas and Eloisa Villegas helped out immensely to improve the Bulldogs' chance of having a strong year.

Football Reaches Quarterfinals

For the fourth time in five years, the Pasadena High School varsity football team made it to the quarterfinals of CIF tournament play. The Bulldogs opened CIF by pulverizing West Torrance, 32-22. Anthony Wallace was superb in rushing for over 300 yards, and quarterback Cris Sunada had a fine game in completing four of five passes for 108 yards, his highest output of the season.

The Bulldogs were not as successful in their next game at home against second-seeded Antelope Valley. Despite scoring first on a Wallace touchdown, Antelope Valley controlled the game after the first quarter with excellent defense en route to a 27-7 victory.

Despite the loss, Coach Gary Griffiths pointed out the fact that the team had an excellent and prosperous season.

He'll be so Staf,

How gets it? You ^{have} reserved your first year here, but have three more. Don't worry, they'll go fast. You're really a nice person, and I wish I had had more time to talk. Maybe next year, and if we get another class together, we will be able to get to know each other better. God, I dread coming back for my junior year. At least you don't have to worry, your sophomore year is just as easy as the freshman year. Best of luck in your numerous sports. Have a great summer, and see ya next year.

"Success of the class," said Young, "was due to the class itself."

Special fund-raisers included selling pep items during lunch and at the Turkey Tussle as well as on Clubs' Day and at Hughes' Market in Pasadena.

Because of their hard work, the juniors were able to form a prom committee and even visit the Century Plaza Hotel, a possible prom sight.

"Each year our class has seemed to improve," said Cacciotti, "so we're really looking forward to a great senior year."

"I'm very pleased," said Manning, "with the fact that the entire junior class participated in activities. Our efforts will no doubt enhance the hopes that our prom and the rest of our high school years will be successful."

"Our energetic spirit," said Vodnoy, "kept us alive and gave us a positive attitude."

Sophomores Strive Hard

Lisa Tomlinson Leads Sophs to New Unified Spirit

his year the class of 1989, led by president Lisa Tomlinson (top right), worked diligently to achieve a unified spirit. The sophomores made a great showing on this year's Spirit Day. Members of the class put in several hours at poster painting parties to prepare their display of creativity and enthusiasm. "We worked hard but, we had a great time," said sophomore Tom Clark.

treasurer Yvonne Rebong (top left) was able to lead the class through a successful year financially. Helen Grace candy sales, a Christmas message sale, a carnation sale, and lunch time candy sales helped give them a good start on bringing in money for the prom.

"I found there was much more participation and interest this year than in the past," said Tomlinson. "I feel that our class has potential for a great senior year."

"I'm sure," said Salas, "that our class will accomplish its goals."

Spencer Vodnoy Leads Frosh to Financial Security

The Freshman Class led by President Spencer Vodnoy, (top), got off to a great start financially in hopes for a terrific prom. The Class of 1990 participated more than most freshmen classes do in acquiring almost $2,000, having a hot dog sale and car wash, and surprising everyone with its outstanding Spirit Day decorations.

"The class officers and I tried to get the entire class involved in activities to start our first year off well," explained Vodnoy. "It was a great honor as I got to set the pace financially for the rest of our years here at PHS. The other class presidents and Cabinet members helped me a lot in turns of being organized, making decisions, and in general the things a president needs to do to be successful. It's been a really great year."

Along with Vodnoy, hard-working freshmen officers included Gary Och, vice-president (bottom); Devon Kobayashi, secretary (bottom); and Cindy Young, treasurer (Middle right).

"Working as an officer made the year much more fun and enjoyable," Young added.

hey cutie!

how's everything going. What are ya going to do this summer, besides partying.
although I've known you, only for a year,
you are a real sweet, good-looking person.
This summer I'm going to have to give you a call and we'll have to go to the

Stephanie,

I've only known you for one year now, and you seem like a sweet person. Stay that way. Hope to get ya' in some of my classes next ~~year~~ year. Have an awesome summer and don't party too much. Hope to see you over the summer.
But if I don't, I know I'll see ya' next year.

Faculty, Staff Show Concern

 he faculty and staff at PHS showed concern and were willing to lend a helping hand when it was needed throughout the school year, making many students realize the true value of their teachers.

"They were a bunch of hard-working people," said student Theresa Coates, "and they demonstrated a lot of pride in their work."

The faculty at PHS did not just teach, but they also were involved in other areas of the school as well. Some volunteered to advise clubs, others showed school spirit by attending athletic events and some even offered to counsel students who were going through tough times.

Because of their diverse backgrounds and interests, these individuals were able to bring knowledge and understanding as well as valued friendships to many of their students.

"It was very helpful," said senior Julie Clark, "when teachers used their own uniqueness to present classes that were fun and interesting instead of just routine."

E. Louise Coover
Principal

PHS welcomed a new principal this year — E. Louise Coover, from Wilson Junior High.

Coover claims she had a very rewarding first year as principal. "I was very pleased with our student body and teaching staff," she said. "They were all very enthusiastic throughout the school year. Their attitudes should be recognized as outstanding. The students continually participated in activities as well as working hard to maintain their grades. Hopefully next year will be even better."

According to Coover, the highlights of the year was awarding the National Merit Finalists. "It was really exciting for me to see deserving students awarded such prestigious awards and watching the joy on the seniors' faces as they were accepted to colleges."

After twenty one hard-working years as Pasadena High School, physics teacher Edward Fox retired at the end of the 1986-1987 school year.

Besides teaching his rugged and gruelling physics classes, Fox was adviser of the Physics Club for three years and a football trainer for ten years. Before coming to PHS, he taught industrial arts at Eliot Junior High.

"Before Mr. Fox, physics was not interesting to me at all," said Janet Bowen. "He was the first one to get me interested. His class was a lot of fun and very beneficial. His experiments were unlike the 'ordinary' experiments most science teachers have. Moreover, he really loved teaching the class, than having it forced upon him. Because I have decided to major in physics, I would really like to thank him for all his help and knowledge."

Pasadena High School will surely miss Mr. Fox. Physics just won't be the same! 🌟

Faculty member Helen Hustedt has been teaching at PHS since 1961. She has taught primarily Latin but has also taught some English and Spanish.

Hustedt is very involved in campus activities. Adviser of Z-Club, she is also the girls' JV tennis coach.

She says she enjoys Z-Club because of the enthusiasm of the members. She has also found coaching very exciting. "More girls joined the team," she said, "and the team did so well."

Hustedt claims she initially became active on campus when she saw how much it meant to her own kids to have willing staff members get involved. Since then, she has found the interaction with students in and out of the classroom rewarding.

"There is a feeling of satisfaction in giving my time," she said. "I have a sense of belonging to the PHS family."

Getting to know students and showing them the fun of reading were important factors in Ruth Judkins' decision to become a school librarian.

Judkins has been at PHS for eight years and considers the library to be a refuge where students can forget their problems and find new hope through books.

"The library is a place of service," said Judkins, "and using it is a privilege students should appreciate."

As adviser to the Library Club, Judkins helped organize activities and followed her goal of integrating the library with fellowship and enjoyment.

Instrumental Music*

David Miller came to PHS at the beginning of November. He walked right into the middle of a heavy performance schedule for the band. The transition was a smooth one, and Miller has seen all the instrumental groups through a successful year.

Miller came to PHS from the Pasadena Boys' Club where he was instrumental music director. He came because he wanted the challenge of working with more advanced players and performing more exciting music. In the future he hopes to increase the size of all the groups and to raise their level of performance.

Members of the bands, orchestra and tall flags enjoyed having Miller as a teacher, his friendliness and energy appeal. "He's a dynamic music educator and he's very talented," said Drum Major David Scharf. "Miller takes his teaching seriously and tries to improve the overall musicianship of the students."

Edmund Sutro PHD, who has been at PHS for 15 years, has proven he is one of the most dedicated, interesting and mysterious teachers.

Dedication is Sutro's claim to fame. Students who had him in psychology, government or American history knew he did more than just teach a class.

"Sutro gave me a mental picture of what America was really like," said junior Hillary Manning. "He decorated the classroom to look like whatever period of history we were studying. He played songs of the period, served different types of food, dressed up as historical heroes and really helped me to understand it easier. He is unique. It was an extremely hard class, but it was worth it."

"Even though he thrived on torturing us with work and embarrassment, his class was definitely worthwhile," explained senior Amy Blackshaw. "He can make the boring class interesting. He is truly amazing."

Sutro's personality is as well known as his tough classes. During fire drills one could see him lecturing his classes in the parking lot. He demanded that seniors know the school's alma mater. Furthermore, he was an Oreo fanatic, and at times he would eat six at once.

This talented and clever individual is a USC alumnus, and makes this known to all he encounters. A giant USC clock sits on his wall, blasting the USC fight song. Since the Trojans' rivals are the popular UCLA Bruins, Sutro insults anything and anyone having to do with the Bruins — most notably UCLA alumnus and English and journalism teacher Ann Drury. A Sutro-Drury feud arises every year before the annual Trojan-Bruin football game. They draw up a written contract that Sutro cleverly writes that results in a "humiliation session." This year, because UCLA won, 45-25, Sutro had to appear in center quad at high noon (Sutro's running suit was a tuxedo) and jog around the quad in tennis shoes displaying the score of the game.

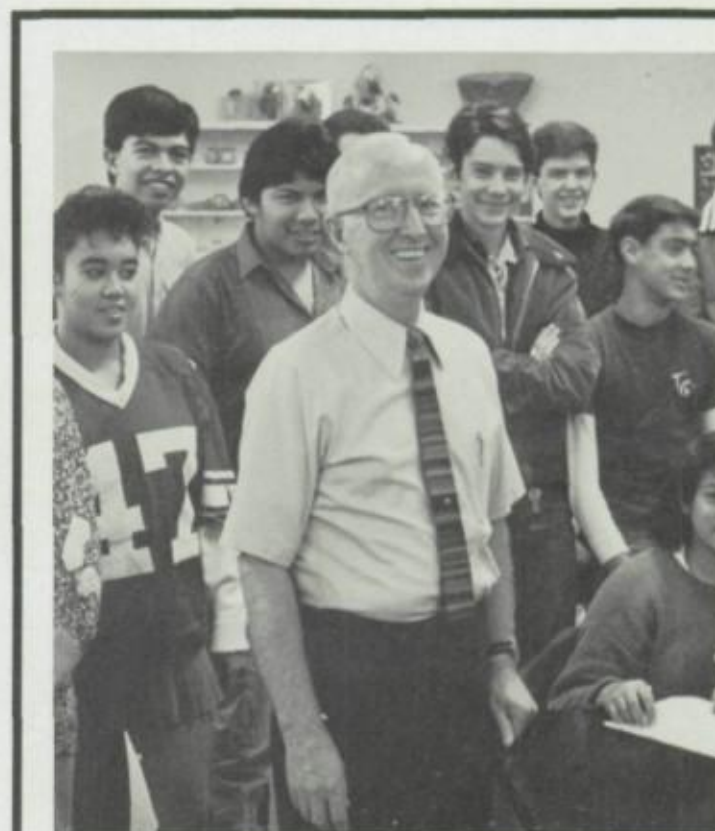

Despite the fact that Edmund Sutro is intimidating, overwhelmingly biased towards USC and at times uncontrollable, people are awed by his presence. He is, in fact, an experience in itself. College bound students should consider taking him, although most people tell them differently.

Darrell Woods Science

Biology teacher Darrell Woods completed 25 years of teaching at PHS in which he consistently demanded efficiency and organization from all of his students.

Informal discussions as well as labs were important factors in Woods' classes.

"They are meant to be meaningful," said Woods, "and they are necessary parts of the total learning process."

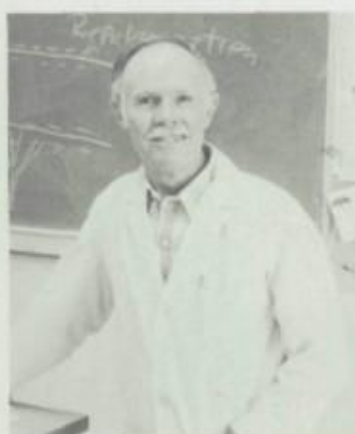

Because of his hard work, Woods' greatest rewards are seeing former students go on in the field of biology and finding success.

Woods, who is retiring this year, began his teaching career 33 years ago. He taught in the states of Illinois and Nebraska before coming to PHS.

In addition to his teaching, Woods was adviser of CSF for nine years.

He was also known for keeping the principal's office cheery by bringing in flower arrangements weekly.

Laurie Radcliff, the senior clerk typist at PHS for six years and an alumni from the class of 1975, was always a common sight to students seeking help in D-103. She not only prepared the daily bulletin, but also issued bus passes and ID's. Radcliff also helped vice principal of student activities Roy Sunada supervise club and school activities as well as pep squad and athletic events.

"I enjoy being able to chaperone at dances and other activities," said Radcliff. "It's an extra chance to see students in a different light."

SAVE for Luke

Steff my 2nd freshman. You shouldn't save any thing for W.C. Well I hope your 3rd year at the Dog's house will be as awesome as mine was. Tell your brother to be cool with the women. You have the greatest Mom in the world be nice to her and don't cause her any problems. When I come here to visit I hope you will be ~~the~~ ^{that} nice young lady I left.

SAVE for W.C.

It's been nice knowing you this year, you are a very special person in my life that I indeed care for, you are like a little sister to me, I hope that your years a P.H.S be pleasurable and where ever I go to school I will come and visit you and come see you perform in sports, and you will do good. I'm so sad because you are a freshman, you have a long time at P.H.S but don't worry about it because it will go pretty fast. Whatever you do in life I will be very proud of you, I know I kind of faded out of your life at the end of the school year but I've been so busy with my finals, pressure and plus a lot of

To have a friend is to have one of the sweetest gifts; to be a friend is to experience a solemn and tender education of soul from day to day. A friend remembers us when we have forgotten ourselves. A friend may praise us and we are not embarrassed. He takes loving need of our work, our health, our aim, our plans. He may rebuke us and we are not angry. If he is silent, we understand. It takes a great soul to be a friend . . .

One must forgive much, forget much, forbear much. It costs time, affection, strength, patience, love. Sometimes a man must lay down his life for his friends. There is no true friendship without self-sacrifice. We will be slow to make friends, but having once made them, neither life nor death, misunderstanding, distance nor doubt must ever come between.

Although we may now be separated, the bond between us is still there. Friendship holds us together forever.

Yearbook Staff Has Rough Year

Being on a yearbook staff is no day at the beach. I'll attest to that. Year after year certain students apply to be on the yearbook staff only because it is an easy "A". Well, it isn't, and anyone who says it is, is wrong. It takes hard work and dedication to do the work required to put together a decent yearbook. When the pressure is on, forget that easy "A" if the heart is not there.

When the '86-'87 year started, it seemed that this year's yearbook staff didn't have the heart or spirit to construct Campus '87. It seemed as if I prodded and prayed forever (so it seemed). But I realized that I was just expecting too much out of the "new recruits". I remember A.D. telling me that they will come around, and sure enough, with overwhelming support from Didi Fraioli, part of the staff did manage to pull themselves together. All of those other people who thought being on the yearbook staff would assure them of an easy "A" found out that the "A" was not easily obtained.

Goals, Ambitions Achieved Through Togetherness

The 1986-'87 school year has come to an end. Each one of us has learned a great deal in this seemingly endless span of time. Whether it be a new language learned or a new field of science conquered, each student has widened his or her range of knowledge. And no one student has done it alone. All of us have worked together as a team, on and off the field. Even the brightest student on the campus had to make the grade with the help of an outside source. When times became tough, we helped each other out the best we could. We may have had to wait, but eventually someone came to the rescue. A poet once wrote, "When things go wrong, as they sometimes will, when the road you're trudging seems all uphill, when the funds are low and the debts are high and you want to smile, but you have to sigh, when care is pressing you down a bit, rest! if you must — but never quit."

That poet was really referring to a boxer. However, that passage could and does coincide with life's everyday battles. And as each one of us leaves this facility of knowledge, we should remember that we made it, not alone, but together. And we should pass on this knowledge to future generations. One final note — things get done faster and better when we work together.

Steffie,

Hey Ann, It's funny how we just met this year and it seems like we've known each other forever. I glad that we have a friendship where we can tell each other everything. I hope it stays that way. You're a real sweetie. Just remember that FRESHMAN are RAD. An we'll make next year even better. Keep in touch over the summer.

Yr,

Gennie

Steffanie,

hey! will you look at us! talk talk talk! i'm glad we finally got through this dumb fight of ours. we still have so much more to go through and so much more to share! don't be a stranger okay? you just look adorable in all these pictures! i mean it! well, i really don't have too much more to say except - you've been a special friend to me and you always will be! good luck & go get 'em!!

Love you!

Alison ☺

2 what a face?!

Steff
Hello!

Nice knowing you! It has really been glad its been a person I could talk to when ever I needed a hear to listen. I really do appreciate all of you can reach first try. I go you

Hey Staff, well i'm hoping life at P.H.S gets better than what i've seen, but if not, i'm glad were still friends and are here for each other. We've had rough times but lets remember the word "had". I'd like to. i'm glad we're still friends, and i hope we have fun the next 3 years, i'm sure we will but just in case, well, you know it's been fun and i hope it will get more fun.

Have a good ~~summ~~ summer.

i know i'll see you, but...!

See ya!

Jenny

Hey Steff, how's it going babe? i hope ~~eg~~ everything is going wonderfully. you're such a sweetheart.
i hope your freshman year was great. my junior year was pretty O.K. too. i'm glad we became good friends this year. i hope to see you all summer and next school year. take care of yourself

Love

Hey Staff maybe
What's up cutie?
Well, I haven't really but know you're a good friend to have and i'll really run into each other. Well, and that we great summer and don't get in trouble.
Keep the great CABARET PATCH up really want you to be on it with me, it'll be fun.

Steffie,
It was nice
knowing in art class with Mrs Martin who was such a bore. even though we hardly talk it was a nice meeting your friend always,

Steff,

you've been a wonderful friend, despite I'll only know you for about a month or so. but I'm glad we meet. Can't write anything right now cuz I have to pay attention to Geometry or I'll get busted. Now you wouldn't like that would you. So I continue at 6th period! Well I'm back! So how's life. Any good! I hope so. Anyways, you're a real cool chick, since I only know you about a couple of weeks. Did I write that line already oops! So I guess I'll be jamming or gelling or just plain leaving cuz I gotta sign more year books for a lot more friends.

Love + kisses

Steff,

You've been a real... ~~Swatie~~ and thanx! I mean for all the money you offered to let me use! I can't believe the year is over!

Let's hope all our high school years don't speed up like that! Have the raddest summer and I know you will in Huntington! Keep smiling cuz it's your best trait!
